STASSEN AIRS PLAN TO HALT LABOR STRIFE

GOP Presidential Candidate Warns Congress Against 'Going Too Far.'

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Harold E. Stassen, the GOP's only announced presidential candidate, gave congress a 10-point labor reform program today based upon "self-restraint and self-discipline" by both management and workers.

The former Minnesota governor warned the senate labor committee against going "too far" by outlawing the closed shop or industry-wide bargaining. Likewise he opposed compulsory arbitration, labor courts, or drafting strikers into the armed forces.

Stassen endorsed the ida of banning jurisdictional strikes, secondary boycotts and unionization of supervisory employes.

The young Republican's statement was made to a committee headed by Sen. Taft (R., Ohio), one of the strongest potential candidates for the Republican presidential nomination in 1948.

Urges Careful Study.

While the house labor committee continued its own parallel labor hearings, Stassen urged the senators to authorize a continuing study of labor relations and proposed "government assistance in weeding out subversive elements in labor leadership."

He recommended a slowdown against strikes or lockouts whereby a 40-day period of negotiation would precede a final secret strike vote. Only a majority of the employes in a bargaining unit could authorize a walkout. Stassen said:

"I cannot urge too strongly that our main reliance in the relationship between labor and capital, if we are to continue as a resilient free economy, must be upon the exercise of self-restraint and self-discipline by both."

Stassen's opposition to banning the closed shop and industry-wide bargaining struck at two bills sponsored by Sen. Ball (R., Minn.), whom Stassen himself appointed to the senate when he was the nation's youngest governor. Ball is a member of the labor committee.

Cites Power Abuse.

Stassen said that in recent years too much power has been concentrated in labor leaders and "that power has been abused." He added:

"But it also appears to me that there is some danger of going too far in the adoption of new legislation or the amendment of existing statutes and to so weaken labor that the result would be injurious not only to labor but to our free economy as a whole."

OFFICER MUM ON GEM SOURCE

SAN FRANCISCO —(INS)— Col. Edward J. Murray today awaited transportation to Japan where he will be questioned further on his possession of a quarter-of-a-million dollars in "souvenir" diamonds.

The 55-year old veteran of two wars was in U. S. army custody at San Francisco's Fort Mason pending his departure at an unannounced date.

Murray, arrested on radioed orders from Gen. Douglas MacArthur, said in an interview by newsmen: "I can't say at this time where or exactly how I acquired them. But they weren't taken from the vaults of the Bank of Japan, where I was custodian."

New Cold Wave to Push Mercury Below Zero

GOP PLANNING BUDGET LIMIT

Congressional Leaders Near Agreement on 32 Billion Dollar Cap on Spending.

WASHINGTON— (AP)—Republican congressional leaders were said today to be near agreement on a $32,000,000,000 top limit for next year's budget—a figure they contended would leave $7,000,000,000 for tax cutting and debt payments.

The 20 percent "across the board" tax reduction plan would amount to $3,500,000,000.

GOP members of the senate-house budgetary committee, meeting in secret sessions, were reported to have reached the $32,000,000,000 figure by listing a possible cut of $2,000,000,000 in President Truman's $11,200,000,000 item for national defense.

Mr. Truman proposed an overall budget of $37,500,000,000. He estimated revenues at $37,700,000,000. However, Colin Stam, revenue expert for the joint committee, has estimated that these revenues will be $200,000,000 higher.

Expect More Income.

To this, the Republicans have added the $1,100,000,000 in additional revenue to be available if the senate like the house, approves keeping the wartime excise taxes on luxuries after July 1.

This, by the Republican figuring, revenues will total $39,000,000,000, a $7,000,000,000 spread over outgo. If this were split equally, it would take care of the 20 per cent income tax slash proposed by some party members and still leave $3,500,000,000 to apply on the national debt.

It was emphasized that final agreement was yet to be reached on the proposed $2,000,000,000 slice in defense appropriations.

Among other major cuts, the Republicans were said to have decided tentatively that they could eliminate more than 500,000 of the present 2,300,000 federal employes at an annual saving of $1,500,000,000.

They were said to have agreed that $1,000,000,000 in public works of all kinds, including roads, rural electrification and various interior department activities could be culled out.

INJURIES FATAL TO BUCYRUS WOMAN

SPRINGFIELD — (AP) — Mrs. Oma Ruth Ulmer, 24-year-old divorcee of Bucyrus and Bellefontaine, died in Springfield City hospital today of injuries received Wednesday night when she and Judson H. Davis, 36, Bellefontaine jeweler, fell from a fourth floor window of the Douglas hotel in Urbana.

Mrs. Ulmer was brought here from the Champaign county hospital in Urbana last night. Davis is in a Bellefontaine hospital in serious condition.

Police Chief J. A. McGraw of Urbana said Mrs. Ulmer told him after the fall she and Davis were in an embrace when they pressed against a window which gave way and pitched them outside. They had been in the hotel room about 15 minutes, McGraw quoted them as saying.

Weatherman Says There's No Relief In Sight Until Early Next Week; Cold Dips Into Southern States.

Promised respite from the week-long cold wave which has gripped the Mansfield area vanished today in weather bureau forecasts of a new cold wave expected to strike tonight.

The mercury was expected to drop below zero in the Mansfield area. No relief is in sight until early next week.

"Below normal temperatures can be expected for the next four or five days," Meteorologist George Mindling said in Columbus.

"There'll be some easing Sunday and Monday but the extended forecast shows colder Tuesday," he added with a shudder.

There was little snow in the new cold wave for Ohio, weather bureau officials said. High winds, however, were creating blizzard conditions elsewhere in the middle west.

Temperatures fell as much as 45 degrees in 12 hours as the cold wave struck states west of Ohio last night.

Mansfield was the coldest spot in the state last night with a reading of 11 degrees. The Hayesville weather station reported precipitation of .11 of an inch light snow fell.

Throughout Ohio last night's snow was reported as ranging from a trace to 10 inches at Chardon.

Gas Still Adequate.

No further curtailment of natural gas in the city was expected, G. K. Schooler, manager of the Ohio Fuel and Gas Mansfield branch office reported.

"Consumers have complied without requests to cut down on gas. This has resulted in continued good pressure to home users and no change in this is expected," Schooler said.

Although a number of workers were reported idled in the city because of the curtailment of natural gas supplies to major industries, it was hoped no further lay-offs

Georgia Judge Ponders Claims of 2 Governors

M'DONOUGH, Ga.—(UP)—Georgia's world-publicized dual governorship moved into a crucial court test today.

Superior Judge Walter C. Hendrix of Atlanta, the capital city, called for arguments on a plea by Acting Gov. M. E. Thompson for a declaratory judgment to oust Gov. Herman Talmadge from office.

Talmadge, son and political heir to the late Gov.-elect Eugene Talmadge, was elected governor by the legislature Jan. 15 after death denied the office to his father, a stormy petrel in Georgia politics for 20 years.

Thompson, bluntly outspoken doctor of philosophy, had been elected Georgia's first lieutenant-governor and claimed the governorship by automatic succession. While Talmadge forces were napping, he got himself sworn in as acting governor. But young Talmadge, 33-year-old navy veteran, installed himself in the executive department and is operating under certain restrictions.

Wins Partial Victory.

Talmadge won a partial court victory yesterday. Superior Judge Bond Almand of Atlanta ordered resisting State Treasurer George B. Hamilton to accept $7,000,000 in tax monies collected by Talmadge's appointed revenue commissioner, Charles D. Redwine.

But Judge Almand emphasized that the ruling did not force Hamilton to recognize Talmadge as governor or Redwine as legal revenue commissioner. Hamilton had objected to accepting the funds on grounds it might commit him to recognize the officials. He refuses to recognize either Talmadge or Thompson until the issue is settled by the state supreme court.

And regardless of how Hendrix rules on today's arguments, the case will go to the state's highest tribunal. The losing contender has 20 days from Hendrix's decision to appeal. Hendrix is not expected to issue an immediate ruling, but it probably will come early next week.

HOLMES MAN, 26, DIES IN CRASH

MILLERSBURG — Welker D. Lemon, 26, of Holmesville, R. D. 1, was killed instantly, and his brother, Jack, 22, suffered severe head injuries in a head-on collision last night between their car and a truck.

The accident occurred at 7:30 p. m. on State route 76 three miles north of Millersburg.

The victim died of a skull fracture, authorities said. His brother was taken to Pomerene Memorial hospital in Millersburg where his condition was reported as critical.

Driver of the truck, Marlin Dennison, 21, of Holmesville, R. D. 1, was a neighbor of the Lemons. With him in the truck were his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Telford Dennison, and their five-year-old daughter, Shirley. None of them was injured. The Dennisons were taking Shirley to the hospital for treatment for pneumonia. A passing motorist took her there after the accident.

The Lemon car was demolished. Sheriff Wayne D. Starner and the Wooster state highway patrol said Dennison would not be held responsible for the accident.

Foster Street To Be Closed For Coasting

Hey, kids, grab your sleds and head for Foster street! Tonight, from 6:30 to 10, it'll be reserved for coasters only.

Service-Safety Director E. L. Morgan said blockades with lanterns will close off Foster from Arch to First streets.

If the coasting remains good, the street also will be closed to traffic over the weekend, Morgan said.

MISHAP KILLS ROY HICKMAN

Malo Yard Manager Crushed To Death By Truck At Railroad Siding.

Roy Hickman, 47, yard manager at the Malo Brothers junk yard on Bowman street, was injured fatally last night when he was crushed accidentally between a truck and a railroad box car at the yard.

Police said Mr. Hickman was leaning out of or fell from the freight car doors when a semi-trailer truck driven by Harley J. Thomas, of Canton, backed up and trapped him.

Acting Coroner Ralph E. Wharton issued a certificate of accidental death. Thomas was not held.

The box car was being loaded with automobile batteries when the accident occurred at about 7:45 p. m. Mr. Hickman was pronounced dead on arrival at General hospital.

An employe of the scrap firm for 20 years, he was born in Marion county on Oct. 17, 1899. He served in the army engineer corps during World War II and was a member of VFW post in Galion.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Emma Bell Hickman, of Marion; three sisters, Mrs. Ira Rider, sr., of Wooster, Mrs. Nina Johnson, of Marion, and Mrs. Pauline Smith, of Toledo, and a brother, John L. Hickman, of Bloomington.

The body was sent to the Hughes funeral home in Marion today, and funeral services will be held Saturday. Burial will be in Marion.

SENATE STUDIES 2-TERM LIMIT

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A GOP-sponsored proposal to limit a president to a maximum of two four-year terms now is up to the senate.

The proposed constitutional amendment was adopted by the house yesterday 285 to 121—or 14 more votes than the necessary two-thirds majority. To become effective it must muster a two-thirds majority in the senate and then be ratified by 36 of the 48 states.

In another phase of congressional activity, William L. Clayton, undersecretary of state for economic affairs, was called before the house merchant marine committee to give information on Russia's attitude on returning 96 American ships turned over to the Soviets during the war. Chairman W. W. Smith of the Maritime commission told the group yesterday that so far as he knew Russia had "refused" to discuss the matter.

Simultaneously Comptroller General Lindsay Warren was asked by the senate appropriations committee whether he thought the United States should ship $25,094,925 of supplies previously earmarked for the Soviet under the old lend-lease program. Chairman Bridges (R-NH) contended the deal would by-pass last year's law liquidating lend-lease even though Russia had put up cash for the supplies.

OHIOAN KILLED

HONOLULU —(AP)— Lt. Hugh D. C. Saltsman, 26, a fighter pilot from Irondale, O. (Jefferson county), was killed in a crash at sea near here Wednesday, the navy announced today. BRITISH ARM FOR SHOWDOWN IN PALESTINE

Troop Reinforcements Arrive After Women, Children Are Cleared Out.

BULLETIN

LONDON —(AP)— The British cabinet was reported considering a compromise Palestine formula today to allow 100,000 Jews from European displaced persons camps to enter immediately a semi-autonomous Jewish province in the Holy Land.

JERUSALEM — (INS) — British authorities announced today the completion of "Operation Polly"—the evacuation of women and children—and troops began the occupation of commandeered Jewish dwellings.

Troops, including newly-arrived reinforcements, moved into the homes in the fashionable Rehavia quarter behind the Jewish agency building.

In obvious preparations for a showdown with the illegal Jewish underground, Bren gun carriers, light field pieces, anti-tank guns and other automatic weapons were installed in strategic places in the newly designated security area.

As the Holy Land buzzed with reports that military law may be imposed by Monday night additional barbed wire entanglements were erected at central Jaffa road fronting police headquarters.

This reduced the broad main thoroughfare to a narrow traffic lane.

Plane Delayed.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that the plane bearing the sister of the condemned extremist Dov Gruner from New York had been delayed.

Mrs. Helen Friedman, of Lancaster, Pa., who is making the trip to appeal for his life, is not expected to arrive until tomorrow or Sunday.

There is no news as to when Gruner, whose official reprieve has expired, will go to the gallows.

British officials said all women, children and non-essential civilians now have been removed to safer places.

Included were some 1,396 families of British army and civilian personnel transferred by plane and train to Egypt.

Meanwhile, responsible Arab quarters in Jerusalem denied reports that an underground Arab "army" was preparing to launch a Moslem "holy war" if solution of the Palestine problem is unsatisfactory.

Tooth Yields To Nylon Line On Thursday

What do you do if you get a toothache on Thursday afternoon?

You just "think" you call a dentist! That's what a Mansfield business woman thought yesterday. While her front lower tooth throbbed harder and harder she called more and more dentists only to be repeatedly reminded of Thursday is their afternoon off.

By the time she drove home from work, tears were running down her cheeks. Ordinary sedatives did no good. She stumbled into her apartment and opened the closet door. On the floor was a box of fishing tackle—a vestige of a fishing trip with three friends in Canada last summer.

Grimly the woman lifted a bit of nylon line from the box. She knotted it around the agonizing incisor. She thought: "I'll probably faint!" She began to pull with a strength born of desperation.

Things got a little hazy. Then, abruptly, the pain stopped. The tooth dangled from a bit of nylon intended to snag a trout or a bass.

THAT's what you do if you get a toothache on Thursday afternoon!

32-Year-Old Civic, Political Leader Passes

Legislator Stricken Six Weeks After Election to His Third Term; Funeral Services Saturday.

Death has cut short the promising career of John Lindsay Catlett. The Mansfield attorney and representative to the state legislature died at 10:30 last night in Mansfield General hospital.

One of Mansfield's most active young men in political, civic and church functions, Mr. Catlett died at the age of 32.

Death, according to Dr. F. J. Heringhaus, family physician, was due to a "repetition of a cerebral hemorrhage" first suffered on Dec. 30 on the eve of his birthday. The youthful leader died in a coma without regaining consciousness after a second attack suffered at 5 p. m. Wednesday in his home, 1023 Woodland road.

At his bedside were his wife, Mary Cox Catlett; Rev. David N. Roller of the First Presbyterian church, Mrs. R. F. Cox, his mother-in-law, and Bob and Emily Beard, brother and sister-in-law.

Besides his wife and a five-year-old son, John Nail Catlett, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. A. W. Catlett of Wellsville; and a sister, Miss Emily Catlett, a teacher in the Cleveland public schools.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 3:30 p. m. at the Finefrock funeral home in charge of Rev. D. N. Roller. Military services in charge of the Robert P. Spreng Post 26 of the Amvets will be held at the grave in the Mansfield Memorial park.

Elected To Third Term.

Last fall, Richland county voters chose Mr. Catlett to represent them for the third term in the general assembly. He had previously served in 1940 and 1942.

His second term was interrupted by World War II. For two years Mr. Catlett served as a supply officer with rank of Ensign aboard a destroyer-transport in Atlantic and Pacific areas. He was discharged from the navy on April 4, 1946.

He had returned to Mansfield some months earlier on terminal leave and was married on Jan. 13, 1946, to Miss Mary Cox, a close friend of his first wife, who died in 1943.

He and the former Mary Cox observed their first anniversary Jan. 13, while Mr. Catlett was

Leaders Join In Tribute

Mansfield and Richland county leaders today paid tribute to 32-year-old John Lindsay Catlett, county representative to the Ohio general assembly, who died last night.

"This community has lost one of the most capable young men it has ever produced," Probate Judge S. H. Cramer said.

"He died just as he was getting into stride after his service in time of war. John had all the enthusiasm of his youth but a judgment mature beyond his years. I have lost a friend I loved and respected," the judge said.

Similar tribute to the young attorney, who last fall won election to his third term in the legislature, came from scores of other friends and associates.

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn remarked that Mr. Catlett's passing "is a severe blow and loss to the community. John certainly had a wonderful future ahead of him."

'He'll Be Missed.'

C. L. Shoup, chairman of the county commissioners who spoke for the three-man board, declared that Mr. Catlett "will be missed by this office as well as the entire county. We have lost a very promising young man with a great career in prospect."

LEADERS DOUBT CATLETT POST WILL BE FILLED

Richland county's seat in the Ohio general assembly, vacated by the death last night of Atty. John L. Catlett, will probably remain unfilled for the balance of the two-year-term, legal and political leaders indicated today.

Under law, the vacancy can be filled in a special election called by the governor. But the custom has usually been to leave such a vacancy unfilled until the next general election.

Presumably, if the county Republican or Democratic committees would request a special election, the governor would take action.

But Ralph M. Hardy, chairman of the Republican executive committee, reports that his organization would oppose a special election.

"The county would have very little to gain through electing a new man. Except for special sessions, the legislature meets only once during the two-year term and its meeting would undoubtedly be over by the time we could hold an election. Besides, we desire that Mrs. Catlett receive John's salary for the remainder of his term," Hardy said.

Law — and custom — provides that the salary of a deceased member of the legislature be given to his widow during the rest of his term.

George W. Biddle, chairman of the county Democratic central committee, said he doubted that his group would take action to have an election held.

The law requires that both special primary and special general election must be held to fill the post. The primary must be held at least 15 days before the general election and declarations of candidacy must be filed with the board of elections 10 days before the special primary.

SHOPPERS BRAVE COLD IN HUNT OF BARGAINS

Spotty buying marked the first morning of the two "Greater Mansfield's Days."

A near-blizzard held down the crowd in the opening hours today but merchants hoped for clearing skies for Saturday's continuance of the first semi-annual bargain days since before the war.

Shoppers from outlying districts and the area prevented from availing themselves of the many bargains on the opening day, were expected to crowd stores Saturday.

By noon, when the snowstorm ceased briefly, the first vanguard of the expected crowd had already thronged downtown and stores were preparing for an afternoon rush.

Merchandise that had not been obtainable for years was displayed in quantities. Outing flannel, which shoppers haven't seen for so long they've almost forgotten what it looks like, was to be had at two stores. It didn't last long.

At one store, there was a crowd when the doors opened at 9:45 a. m. By 10:30 a. m., its entire supply of outing flannel had been sold.

Gingham sold like the "proverbial hotcakes."

Women's cotton slips, long unseen on store counters, were being sold rapidly in one store. There was also a good supply of men's cotton shorts and shirts and children's cotton shirts and panties. The last two items, particularly, were being quickly grabbed up.

Counters, heaped high with bargains in children's dresses, were crowded with line-ups that began with the opening of stores and continued well on into the morning.

In all stores, in spite of the bad weather, shoppers numbered more than usual, although there was not the expected rush this morning.

CRAM NAMED TO HEAD CIVIC BOOSTER PLAN

Robert J. Spreng Post No. 26, Amvets, last night named Don Cram as director of a major project designed to enlist the support of the entire community in a year-around program fostering the development of Mansfield.

Details of the program, to be sponsored jointly by Amvets and the Mansfield YMCA, will be announced later.

The project is designed to enlist the aid of all civic and official bodies in emphasizing the history and development of Mansfield through a series of integrated civic programs.

The post also instructed its delegates to the Joint Veterans commission of Richland county to inquire as to the intent and purpose of that body after questions had been raised on the floor as to why the commission proposed to sponsor a veterans homecoming and Fourth of July fireworks shoot.

The Amvets voted not to support the commission proposal for the veterans homecoming and sponsorship of the Fourth of July fireworks shoot. A spokesman explained that disapproval "did not imply that Amvets are against these projects. It is indication of the Amvets' displeasure at the action of the commission which we believe should not be sponsoring these projects."

A proposal that Amvets sponsor the Mills Brothers circus on April 30, was defeated.

James Wills, jr., announced that negotiations are in progress to obtain space for an Amvet club at the site of the old T & A hotel on North Main street.

Amvet rifle squad, color guard and bugler practice was set for Feb. 13 at 8 p. m. in the Memorial building. The next meeting of the post will be Feb. 23 at 2:30 p. m. in the Memorial building.

JURY INDICTS IBEW OFFICIAL

CLEVELAND —(UP)— Arthur Bennett, former International Vice President of the AFL International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, was indicted Thursday by a federal grand jury here for income tax evasion.

Bennett, at one time stationed in Cleveland and now reportedly residing in Buffalo, was charged with failure to pay an income tax of $21,500 of an alleged 1942 income of $40,072. His annual salary was said to have been $6,450.

Federal officials declined to disclose the source of the alleged extra income but said that most of it came "from selling skilled labor"

The indictment charged that Bennett's total income in 1942 was $40,072, on which he paid a tax of only $5,303. The tax should have been $18,500, according to federal authorities.

Bennett retired from the union post in 1944. He had been an official of the IBEW since 1916

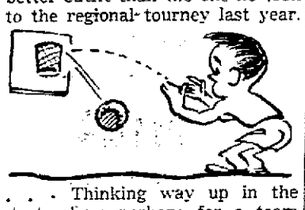
BROWN AND FESLER MENTIONED FOR BUCK JOB

Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp

OHIO HIGH school athletic association offices this week were flooded with requests for ducats to the annual cage tournament. . . . It seems that a United Press release Monday said that all high schools in the state would get "Annie Oakleys" for 10 players, a coach, faculty manager and five others to each session. . . . Actually only competing teams get the free pasteboards. . . . Sandusky Coach Vic Malinovsky says that his present court machine is a better outfit than the one he took to the regional tourney last year.



. . . Thinking way up in the stratosphere perhaps for a team that has won only two of 10 battles. . . . But Bill Regner, Sandusky sports scrivener, says the Streaks ARE much better than the record indicates. . . . They have averaged a point a game more than the Tygers. . . . It will really be sport shirt night when Bill Veeck, Cleveland Indian prexy, addresses the B'nai Jacob men's club here next Wednesday. . . . Bill's only experience with the bane of mankind—ties—came in the Marine corps. . . . All members of the club will wear sport shirts at the meeting. . . . Dominion Electric fisticuff fans will see the cream of Northeastern Ohio's amateur mittmen tonight. . . . Sixty Dominion employes are scheduled to attend the Golden Glove finals in Cleveland. . . . More than 300 young boxers started the trek to the finals last week.

BON MOTS, plagiarized from somewhere: There is a great interest in the marital difficulties of Dodger Manager Lippy Leo Durocher. One scribe reports that a Brooklyn movie house identified Laraine Day on its marquee as "Mrs. Lippy." Which brought forth the following observation: "What a difference a Day makes!"

An observer of the Georgia gubernatorial rhubarb claims that Charley Trippi received nearly 1,000 write-in votes last fall, which at least should give him a claim to the governorship.

On the platter Bing Crosby and Bob Hope cut for the Chicago Baseball Writers' party, Bob, a Cleveland stockholder, remarked, "I'm going to sit back now and let the Indians take care of me." . . . To which Bing retorted, "Yeah, like they took care of Custer."

Cleveland Adds Another Cowboy

CLEVELAND — (INS) — The rough-ridin' Cleveland Rebels added the name of another cowboy to their Basketball Association of America squad today.

Leon Brown, recently released from the Baltimore Bullets of the American league, rejoined his former Wyoming teammates, Kenny Sailors and George Nostrand, on the Cleveland roster.

5 CANDIDATES HEAD LIST OF NOMINATIONS

Legislature Backs Move To Approach Brown Coach.

By JOHN BARRINGTON

COLUMBUS — (INS) — The Buckeye state in general and Columbus in particular buzzed today with what is by way of becoming an almost annual query.

"Who is going to replace Paul Bixler as Ohio State football coach?" the famous High street quarterback was asking his neighbor.

The candidates advanced in the Capital City's bars and over the business man's luncheon special were more numerous than D-4 liquor permits on the eve of a gubernatorial inauguration.

Five Candidates.

Simmered down, five names led all the rest. They were, reading from left to right:

Wesley Fesler, former Ohio State All-American, a teammate of incoming Athletic Director Dick Larkins, and present Pittsburgh coach;

Sid Gillman, another Buck All-American, like Fesler an end, and now a highly successful coach at Miami university;

Paul Brown, the Massillon Cinderella man, who left a previous tenure as OSU coach to become chief potentate of the Cleveland Browns;

Don Faurot, University of Missouri mentor, known to be highly regarded by Ohio State officials;

And Jack Mollenkopf, Toledo Waite athletic director, reportedly the "favorite son" candidate of the Ohio High School Football Coaches association.

All those and many more were mentioned to succeed the 40-year-old Bixler, who resigned yesterday to accept a similar position at Colgate university.

Many—in fact the vast majority—of those who purported to be "in the know" opined that Fesler was a shoo-in. So much so that one observer said he heard more discussion of the possibility of Fritz Crisler leaving Michigan for California.

Jet Propelled.

The Fesler bandwagon was jet propelled by two particular factors. In the first place, Wes was undoubtedly one of the most popular athletes ever to wear Buck livery. Moreover, his friendship with Larkins was expanded to virtually Damon-and-Pythias proportions by sports page romanticists.

There was, however, a question as to Fesler's availability. He was known to be signed to a three-year contract at Pitt, where his setup was said to be a particularly excellent one.

Fesler insisted late yesterday that he had not been officially approached on the matter. He intimated any opportunity to return to his alma mater would be enticing, but he added that he wanted to cause no hard feelings by leaving Pitt.

The Paul Brown crusade seemed least likely of success despite the backing of the state house of representatives. The house passed a resolution urging the university athletic board to give Brown "every consideration."

Sandusky May Give Tyger 5 Tough Tussle

Sandusky's Blue Streaks may give the Mansfield Senior high Tygers quite a tussle tonight on the Sandusky hardwood.

The Bengals will go into the fracas wearing the favorites mantle but the same thing happened in the finals of the district tournament last year. Then Coach Vern Hoffman's lads were expected to have little trouble annexing the championship.

Waltz Around.

Mansfield had waltzed around Sandusky, 57 to 42, in the regular season but were stopped cold in the tourney, 53 to 39. Three Blue Streaks who played in that upset are back in the 1946-47 starting lineup. The trio—Bob Sprau, Jack Blough and Bruce Alexander—accounted for 23 of the Streak tallies.

They have been joined by Don Barth, soph forward, and either Ernie Nimmons or Angelo Mularoni at center. Barth is a fugitive from the Sandusky reserve team and is rated as some shakes of a basketball player. In fact he looks like the best thing in a Streak suit although he has started only two games. Barth was high point man in both tilts with a total of 24.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Streaks are loaded with veteran talent they have been able to win only two of 10 games. Sandusky has lost six straight and was beaten by Ashland, 58-37; Cleveland Collinwood, 39-32 and Elyria, 52-49. The Tygers have beaten all three quintets.

Two Victories.

Sandusky Defeated Fostoria, 47 to 38 and Port Clinton, 57 to 37. Other beatings were at the hands of Toledo Woodward, 53-33; Lorain, 46-40; Bowling Green, 56-47; Norwalk, 57-45 and Findlay, 41-29.

The giant Findlay team is rated as one of Ohio's toughest schoolboy aggregations and did not gain a working margin on the Streaks until the final period.

Hoffman will send his regular lineup against the Sandusky men of basketball. That fivesome has Ralph Majors and Tommy Bloor at forwards, Chuck Sisco at Center and Ollie Cline and Nick Gagich at guards. Jerry Robfogel and Phil Pittinger should get in there for "breather" duty.

Fred Staub's sophomores meet the Sandusky reserves in the prelim. Big Bert Lindsay, junior center, will play with the sophomores again in place of the injured Norbert Shibinsky.

150 Boy Scouts Join Fox Hunt Near Hastings

Johnny Appleseed area Boy Scouts will hold their annual outdoors day tomorrow by joining the Richland county game and pest control in its weekly fox hunt.

Harold Snyder, president of the organization, again reminded the sportsmen that this hunt at Hastings is for the purpose of helping the Scouts celebrate their day in the fields.

Floyd Dent, Mansfield scout executive, will be in charge of the scouts with Charlie Kimmel, county game warden, R. L. Stevenson, neighborhood scout commissioner, and Lou Rondel aiding Dept.

Art Schnittke and Jimmy Myers will be the field marshalls and Carl W. Schafer, secretary-treasurer of the hunters will help Snyder in supervising the hunt.

Scouts will assemble at the east side of Central park, where hunters will meet them at 9 a. m. More than 150 scouts are expected to attend.

The fox hunt will begin at the Pleasant Valley church at 9:30, Snyder said.

Forty-five fox have been killed this year and Snyder said that he is in hopes of breaking the 1945-46 record of 54 before the last hunt March 1.

Medina Postpones New London Game

NEW LONDON — The New London-Medina cage game has been rescheduled for Monday, Feb. 24 on the New London court.

Originally scheduled for Wednesday night, the contest was postponed because of weather conditions and due to the fact that members of the Medina quintet are connected with the Boy Scouts and celebrating National Boy Scout week.

Rams Look For Second Win Over Willard Five

Mansfield Madison seeks its 10th victory and second of the year over Willard tonight on the Rams' hardwood.

Coach Jeff DeHaven's Rams cashed in on a second half scoring drive against Willard earlier this season to win 40 to 31. Shelby snapped a Madison nine-game winning streak Tuesday night 32 to 16.

DeHaven put the Rams through a long practice session Wednesday afternoon in an effort to devise a defense to stop the taller visitors. DeHaven's main worries rest in two Willard forwards, Dick Draime and Harold Loney.

Loney tallied 13 points while Draime connected for 12 in the previous Madison-Willard encounter. Draime scored all of his goals from the center of the court. They are six-footers.

Willard employs a zone defense and very seldom uses a fast break offense.

Eldon Pritchard is leading the Madison scoring with 53 field goals and 13 foul shots for 119 points, an average of 10.8. Eldridge has tallied 116 for a 10.5 average.

DeHaven's probable starters will be Pritchard and Eldridge, forwards; Bob Wilson, center, and Ernsberger and Dick Poth, guards.

Draime and Loney will be the starting forwards for Willard with Cliff Fink, Elwood Tackett and Jack Gill filling out the starting lineup. Russ McDowell alternates at either guard or forward and is expected to see plenty of action against Madison.

The Madison reserves collide with Willard's reserve squad in the preliminary tilt at 7:15.

Alexander Wins Tenth Straight Fight

MOSE BROWN KAYOES JOE IN SIXTH ROUND

Professional boxers bit the canvas in profusion last night at the Mansfield Armory.

All five bouts on the benefit card were decided by kayoes with Dandy Dick Alexander putting on the most gratifying exhibition of ring workmanship. Dick made few mistakes in running up his tenth straight pro win with Charley Cox, tough Huntington, W Va, welter, as the victim.

The veteran campaigner Mose Brown battered Mansfield's Joe Brown around at will in the eight-round main event Mose outweighed Joe by eight pounds and used a potent left hook to annihilate the slender Mansfielder.

Smacks Canvas.

Joe smacked the canvas at least once in every round but the second The clincher was a right to the chin in 40 seconds of the sixth chukker Mose put Joe down twice in the fifth and only the bell saved him. Referee Bill Harry could have stopped the fight then because it was obvious that Joe was finished for the night.

Alexander finished Cox in the seventh round with a powerful right to the stomach. He had put Cox down four times in earlier stanzas with a bruising left.

Frank Malone, who subbed for Al Ingraham, put a decided halt to Gale Frye's Mansfield win streak Malone pummeled Frye without mercy and finished it in the second round with a right to the heart Frye was obviously out of condition but Malone looked better than Gale ever has.

Chuck Albrecht, Mansfield heavy, won his second ring appearance by kayoing Tommy Pitt in the third canto. Pitt dropped more from exhaustion than from hard blows Both lads slugged it out for two full rounds with the stronger Albrecht outlasting the Canton puncher.

Wally Barkley, speedy Massillon lightweight, put George Day, Akron, away in two minutes, 48 seconds of the first round.

Mike and Ike, two paperweights, put on a pleasing exhibition just before intermission time.

Rocky Learns Commission's Verdict Today

NEW YORK — (AP) — Rocky Graziano, still insisting he cannot name the men who allegedly offered him $100,000 to throw a fight, learns today the New York State Athletic Commission's decision in his case

After hearing Rocky tell under oath yesterday his own story of the circumstances surrounding cancellation of his scheduled Dec 27 bout with Cowboy Ruben Shank, the commission adjourned.

Graziano is charged with violating a commission rule that any bribe offer must be reported immediately. The boys along the fight front were freely predicting that Graziano's return middleweight title fight with Champion Tony Zale would not go on as scheduled March 21. They expect a drastic penalty.

There appeared to be five possible decisions by the commission. to revoke Graziano's boxing license, suspend him, fine him, reprimand him, or exonerate him.

Insisting he considered the whole thing "as a joke," the middleweight contender said he didn't take the bribe offers seriously.

"If I ever thought anybody really wanted to give me money to throw a fight," the tousle-haired slugger boasted, "I'd knock his brains out"

Boy Scouts Open Week Long Celebration of Anniversary

Hundreds of Mansfield area Boy Scouts join today in opening a week long celebration of the 37th anniversary of the scouting movement. Designated National Boy Scout week, the celebration has for its theme "Scouts of the World—Building For Tomorrow."

Various observances will be held throughout the week in Mansfield, Ashland, Galion, Crestline, Shelby and Loudonville, the districts making up the Johnny Appleseed area.

Floyd Dent, executive, said the celebration in Mansfield will center around a fox hunt Saturday, and church services Sunday. During the rest of the week, the program calls for Perle Whitehead, deputy regional executive of the Boy Scouts of America, to address the Mansfield Rotary club at its luncheon in the Mansfield-Leland hotel on noon, Tuesday, and celebrations on Wednesday by Cubs and Scouts of Troop No. 9, and Thursday by Scout troop No. 18.

Meet in Central Park.

Boy Scouts will participate in their second big fox hunt on Saturday. They will meet in Central park at 9 a. m. where transportation will be provided to the hunting grounds. No guns are to be carried by the scouts.

Girl Scouts have been invited to participate in the religious services Sunday at 7:15 p. m. Rev. D. N. Roller will preside at these special services in First Presbyterian church. About 600 are expected.

Boy Scout troops were first organized in Mansfield in 1911 at the Congregational and First Presbyterian churches. W. H. Tappan and Fred Kelly served as first scoutmasters.

After two years, interest in scouting died, and the movement was halted until 1917 when the YMCA troop was organized, with Carl Wayne as scoutmaster. This troop and two others took an active part in the sale of war bonds and stamps during World War I.

Rotary Gives Hand.

In 1920 the Mansfield Rotary club undertook to sponsor a Boy Scout council with a paid full-time director. Floyd Dent, present director, was selected for the post.

With the cooperation of the superintendent of schools and the board of education, seven troops were organized. The Civic Service committee provided the opportunity for the troops to be of service during national drives and holidays along with many other activities.

From 1925 to 1927 the expansion of the local council into what now comprises the Johnny Appleseed area began. In 1940 the 75-acre campsite in Springfield township was donated by Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Olson.

There are now some 59 various scouting units in the Mansfield areas. They include 38 scout troops, six senior units and 15 Cub packs. There are 1,572 Scouts, Cubs, and Senior Scouts in the area. They are under the supervision of 632 scoutmasters, cubmasters, and leaders.

Barclay On Bridge

Raising your partner's minor suit, if you are able to bid some other suit, is generally losing bridge—especially in a rubber game, or a total point duplicate. It makes no difference how well your hand fits the minor your partner has bid. If you have some other suit of at least four cards, possessing probable No Trump stoppers at its top, the naming of that suit may be all your partner requires to make a sound try for game in No Trumps. Thus it helps you attempt a nine-trick game contract instead of having to reach out for an eleven-trick game in a minor.

	♠ A 6 3 ♥ A J 10 8 7 ♦ J 6 ♣ K 10 2
♠ Q 10 8 2 ♥ K 9 3 2 ♦ 9 7 2 ♣ 9 4	N W E S	♠ J 4 ♥ Q 6 4 ♦ A 10 8 4 3 ♣ 8 7 3

Though this hand was played in a match-point pair duplicate, the bidding point in it was sound enough in any game. It would have been still more important in rubber bridge, in which it could have decided whether or not South would get a game.

Where North raised the clubs on the first round, and South then went to 3-Clubs, it would have been highly hazardous for North then to bid 3-Diamonds. If that bid did not prove the key for South to slip into 3-No Trumps, it could have the effect of pushing South beyond his depth in clubs, to the height of four. As it developed, South made exactly 3-Clubs, losing three in diamonds and one in spades.

The declarer in 3-No Trumps had no trouble making his game against the spade 5 lead. One trick there, plus three in hearts and five in clubs, produced it for him. Note that North at this table did no stretching of his hand. His 1-Diamond did not raise the level at all. After South bid 1-No Trump, North had just about enough for a sound raise to two, and South could now try for game without undue optimism.

—By Bennet Cerf

The eyes of the plastic surgeon lighted with professional fervor when the homeliest man in forty-seven counties entered his office.

"And what," he asked, "can I do for you as if I didn't know?"

The patient explained what he wanted—a Colman nose, Boyer chin, Taylor ears, etc., etc. "I'll do it," the surgeon promised. "I'll make you the handsomest man east of the North river and west of the East river."

There followed three weeks of intense preparation. Then, just as the patient was about to go under the knife, the surgeon paused. "Tell me," he said, "do you want your face completely changed?"

"Oh, no," the patient replied. "I want everybody to know who it is who is so handsome."

Eisler Described as Canadian Spy Ring's U. S. Link

HOUSE GROUP PUSHES PROBE OF ESPIONAGE

Alleged Red Leader's Sister Testifies Her Brother Is 'Dangerous Terrorist.'

WASHINGTON —(INS)— The house un-American activities committee planned today to press an investigation into connections of Communists in the United States with the Soviet atomic bomb spy ring uncovered in Canada.

The renewed effort to investigate Communist espionage activities in the United States came in the wake of committee testimony establishing the strongest link yet uncovered between known participants in the Canadian ring, and high members of the "party" in this country.

One committee member disclosed that the Canadian government has expressed an "interest" in the committee's activities.

The "link" was uncovered when Louis Budenz, former Communist who returned to Catholicism, testified that Samuel Carr, a Communist organizer who is now a fugitive from the Canadian government, sought on "numerous" occasions to contact Gerhardt Eisler in the United States.

Gerhardt Eisler, a self-admitted Communist, was described in a report by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, as a "figure of paramount importance in determining communist policy . . . (who) may be involved in intelligence work."

Identified by Budenz.

Eisler, identified by Budenz and by his own sister, as key representative of the Communist Internationale in the United States, faced serious charges after he failed to testify under a subpoena before the committee.

Already under arrest under a presidential warrant, charging him with being an enemy alien, he now faces additional charges of contempt of congress, perjury, plotting to overthrow the government of the United States, income tax evasion, and falsification of passport.

Justice department sources indicated that Eisler would be brought to speedy trial on the charges, turned over to the department by unanimous action of the un-American activities committee.

Eisler's link with a known Canadian Communist spy piqued the interest of the committee and shifted the line of questioning from his Communist activities to his possible connection with efforts of the Soviet Union to obtain atomic bomb information.

A high point in the dramatic hearing occurred when Eisler's sister, Elfriede Fisher, testified under oath that he was a "dangerous terrorist" and a person who executed important missions for the Communist Internationale in China and Spain, as well as in the United States.

Miss Eisler, alias Fisher, told the committee:

"I am forced to testify against my own blood brother today because I regard him as a most dangerous terrorist, both for the people of America and people of Germany where he wants to go."

Saw Eisler In Moscow.

Another former Communist, William Odel Nowell also identified Eisler as a Communist leader whom he had met in Moscow in 1931 while attending a school operated by the Communist Internationale.

Eisler's attorney, Carol King, released a statement Eisler had prepared to deliver before the Committee In this statement, Eisler admitted he was a Communist but denied that he is a "spy, foreign agent, or the boss of all the Reds in this or any other country."

Both Bundenz and Nowell testified, however, regarding Eisler's "power" in inner-circle Communist meetings in the United States, from 1933 to 1938, when he was known as "Edward" and during his present stay in this country during the war.

Budenz told of one incident when a former editor of the Communist Daily Worker, Clarence Hathaway, had to make a secret trip to Moscow to "rehabilitate" himself before being "castigated" by Eisler.

Hannegan Launches Truman Boom

ACTION WINS APPLAUSE OF DEM LEADERS

President Denies Knowing In Advance of Surprise Move By Postmaster General.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Postmaster General Hannegan's re-election boom for President Truman was favorably received by Democratic leaders in Washington today although the White House officially denied any advance knowledge of the surprise move.

Hannegan, Democratic national chairman, tossed Mr. Truman's hat into the political ring for 1948, with a formal announcement at the end of a New York speech praising advancements in the postal service.

The Democratic chairman conferred with the president before going to New York but presidential Secretary Ross told reporters that Mr. Truman had not discussed the matter with Hannegan.

Asked for comment after the dramatic announcement, Ross said Mr. Truman did not see Hannegan's speech before it was delivered, did not know what he was going to say, and therefore did not know that the postmaster general was launching a second term for the president.

Comments Favorable.

Favorable comment followed from Democrats on Capitol Hill. Sen. Connally (D) Tex., said:

"I have not seen Mr. Hannegan's speech, but I can say this: President Truman is increasing in popularity all the time. I feel that he, on the basis of his record and what he proposes in the future, will be renominated and re-elected."

On the Republican side, Sen. Ball (R) Minn., said the nomination is "a cinch," but added that the election "is something else."

Mr. Truman has thus far remained silent on whether he would run again next year.

Hannegan told the New York meeting of postal supervisors that "we are ready to call upon our president again as the man who has proved himself fit for the job."

Praises Accomplishments.

The postmaster general praised the accomplishments of Mr. Truman since he succeeded to the presidency upon the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt and added:

"We have gone far and fast, but the task of leading us to peace and plenty is not accomplished in a day nor a year.

"Until that work is done, we are ready to call upon our president again as the man who has proved himself fit for the job."

The Simpson band marched on the floor during the half-time period and did some formations while the majorettes displayed their baton twirling skill. The Appleseed band played from the balcony.

The Music Boosters club is sponsoring a Valentine ball in the Simpson gym on Feb. 14 from 8 to 11 p. m. Dick Kline's orchestra will furnish the music. The club also is sponsoring a benefit card party in the Simpson cafeteria on the same night.

The Boys' and Girls' Glee clubs are busy preparing for the Spring Music festival. The ninth grade girls ensemble sang in Hayesville last month and the boys' ensemble is preparing to sing there in the near future.

U. S. Supply of Radioactive Elements Now Exceeds Needs

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — This country's atomic piles are producing radioactive elements in such great quantity that it may be feasible soon to share them with other countries for biological research and medical use.

An atomic energy commission official said today there seemed to be no reason why these research tools "should not be sent abroad" if the supply continues to exceed domestic demand. He pointed out that these by-products of the atomic pile do not have any bearing on the security of atomic bomb secrets.

* * *

RADIOACTIVE elements are in effect "atomic spies." By means of their invisible radiations, scientists on use them to trace the course through animal bodies or plant tissues of substances containing them. The radiations can be detected and followed with Geiger counters.

Through these elements science hopes to discover among other things how cancer develops, how plants turn sunlight into matter, and what happens to sugar in person afflicted with diabetes.

Since the first delivery was made last August to the Barnard Cancer hospital in St. Louis, the commission has sent 300 shipments of radioactive elements to hospitals, educational institutions, and industrial research laboratories all over the country and to Hawaii.

* * *

THE CONTROLLING factor today is not a shortage of many of these elements, but of personnel qualified to handle them, a commission official said.

"Only skilled technicians," he added, "can cope safely with the dangerous rays they emit."

Dr. Paul C. Aebersold of the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atomic plant said that "encouraging results and new discoveries" have come about since the first shipment last August.

He said radioactive phosphorus has been used "satisfactorily" in the study of polycithemia vera, which means overabundance of red cells.

And radioactive iodine, he added, enabled New York physicians to diagnose malfunctioning of the thyroid gland in children.

VFW OPPOSES RENT BOOSTS

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The Veterans of Foreign Wars told congress today that higher rent ceilings would be a "sharp blow" to veterans trying to "reach the economic level of those who remained at home" during the war.

John C. Williamson, VFW assistant legislative director, testified before a senate banking subcommittee considering extension of rent control beyond its present June 30 expiration. He urged the committee to extend rent control as is for another year.

"Consider," he said, "The veteran in a low-paying stop-gap job, the veteran in training on-the-job to make up for the years lost in service, and the veteran who is bottled up with his mother-in-law, or trying to adjust himself to a sane world from the questionable vantage point of a rooming house."

Williamson said he feared that if congress allowed rents to go up many veterans would be evicted for inability to pay. He said a VFW survey showed the average base salary of World War II veterans was about $2,000 a year, and that this necessitated a close budget.

The eviction of veterans, he said, would be "a great price to pay for further increasing the net operating income of landlords on presidential rents, already approximately 35 per cent above the 1939 profit estimate."

AGENT TELLS OF FBI WORK

Tales of the capture of nationally famous confidence men and forgers by the FBI were related to Mansfield Kiwanis club members yesterday by Special Agent C. E. Richardson, in charge of the Cleveland FBI bureau.

Among the stories related was that of "Mr. X," the most famous of all check passing cases. Operating in New York City, "Mr. X" was able to elude detection until he passed a check on a Boston bank in 1943. So clever were his methods that it took the FBI two more years to track him down. In 15 years of operations he had never been detected by a bank clerk although he dealt in sums of thousands of dollars, Richardson said.

Dr. H. G. Knierim was program chairman of the meeting in the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

REPRESENTATIVE JOHN L. CATLETT DIES AT AGE 32

struggling to recover from the cerebral hemorrhage that struck him down six weeks after his election to a third term in the state legislature.

* * *

Oath Administered.

Mr. Catlett's oath of office as a state representative was administered by Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch on Jan. 7 while the legislator lay ill in General hospital. He had won the Republican nomination in May and was elected in November.

* * *

Solons Passed Resolution.

On Jan. 14, the legislature passed a resolution expressing wishes for his speedy recovery and the hope that:

"Representative Catlett soon may be able to take up his duties in all due haste in order that his vivacious personality, experience and prudence may add weight to our deliberations."

On Jan. 16, as he began to show improvement from his first illness, Mr. Catlett was named on the judiciary and military affairs committees of the new house of representatives.

* * *

Boy Scout Leader.

Active in youth projects as well as political life, Mr. Catlett had served as chairman of the Boy Scout Court of Honor and as chief counsellor at the Buckeye Boys' State, sponsored by the American Legion.

Recently he had given his interests to the veterans and was named judge advocate of the Robert P. Spreng post, 26, Amvets, and state legislative officer of the Amvets.

Mr. Catlett's first wife, Florence Nail Catlett, died at the age of 29 of a rare heart disease on Dec. 8, 1943. They were married on Nov. 16, 1940, and a son, John Nail Catlett, now five, was born to them on Dec. 7, 1941.

Born Dec. 31, 1914 in Wellsville, the youthful attorney came to Mansfield following graduation from Ohio State university's college of law in 1938. He established a law office in the Richland Trust building.

* * *

Presbyterian Elder.

At the time of his death, Mr. Catlett was an elder in the First Presbyterian church and an active member of the church session and director of the Presbyterian Men's club.

Mr. Catlett was a member of almost a score of civic, fraternal and professional associations in the city. They included: Richland County Auto club, Sky club, Loyal Order of Moose, Fraternal Order of Eagles, Robert P. Spreng Post 26, Amvets, McVey Post 16, American Legion, Gyro club, Mansfield Lodge No. 35, Masonic order, Elks Lodge, the Young Republican club, Junior Chamber of Commerce, advisory committee of the Farmers Savings and Trust company, member of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, First Presbyterian church, Richland County Bar association, University club, the Richland County Fish and Game Protective association, and the Richland County Republican Executive committee.

Leaders Join In Tribute

Theodore Lutz, county prosecutor, said that Catlett's "record speaks for itself."

Lutz, who often found Catlett opposing him as defense counsel in court proceedings, said: "We knew him as an able lawyer, an outstanding citizen, conscientious public servant, and a kind friend. Richland county lost an all-around good man with his passing."

Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler remarked:

"I can say with the utmost sincerity that he was one of the finest men to come to the bar here in years. He was a hard worker and had outstanding abilities. He had a promising future."

* * *

Biddle Praises Him.

Even his political and legal opponents lauded the young attorney. George W. Biddle, veteran lawyer and chairman of the county Democratic central committee, called Mr. Catlett a "likeable fellow with a good future."

"We as members of the bar and the community will miss him. This is one of those rare occasions when a young man with a most promising future has left us. His quick sense of humor made him especially pleasant to work with," Biddle remarked.

Ralph M. Hardy, chairman of the Republican executive committee, called Catlett a "fine fellow and a good friend."

"The county's loss in John's death is a severe blow," he said.

Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, in whose court Catlett often appeared as attorney, was out of the city and not available for comment today.

would be necessary, industry spokesmen reported.

At Westinghouse officials were anxious over the dwindling supply of propane gas being used in stand-by equipment. Should the cold wave continue, lay-offs will result, company officials said.

In other sections of the state layoffs continued to mount in plants where gas supplies were cut off earlier in the week. More than 6,000 workers were idle in Columbus. Several Cincinnati plants reported layoffs to bring the total unemployed to around the 60,000 mark.

In Cleveland, where industrial users were obliged to lay off an estimated 10,000 workers, a storm of protest was brewing among officials of the affected plants.

* * *

Protest Curtailment.

A committee was being formed among those hard-hit industries to lay a protest petition before the East Ohio Gas company. Plant officials said that the gas company would be asked to give some sort of assurance that there would be sufficient gas for industrial use next winter.

The state department of highways reported most roads snow-covered and slippery in spots. Many secondary roads remained blocked by high drifts in the Geauga county area.

In Richland county highway officials reported all road and highways passable. The state highway department had eight crews working today.

Drifts were reported piling up along some county roads this morning and the county engineer's office ordered out five plows and three trucks.

'Greater Mansfield Days' Are Back!

NEAREST recent approach to a return of "the good old days" is seen in resumption of the traditional "Greater Mansfield Days," which played an important part in the expansion of Mansfield's trading area before the war.

Now, to a greater extent than ever before, Mansfield is in position to emphasize the advantages of shopping—and buying—here, and today and tomorrow will offer opportunity for additional thousands to prove this for themselves.

Participation of eighty retail stores in this revival of "Greater Mansfield Days," under sponsorship of the Retail Merchants' association, amply evidences the spirit of cooperation which pervades this city and augurs well for the future, as community prosperity links closely with the prosperity of the city's retail business establishments.

Association of the word, "bargains," with announcement of the availability of "hard-to-get" merchandise is sufficient to assure lively interest in this week-end sales event—and this will be a fine time to have a look through Mansfield stores . . . and to see a lot of people you know.

Peaceful Primaries In Prospect

ANOTHER of those nice, quiet primaries is promised for Tuesday, May 6, with nothing more for voters to get excited about than a contest for nominations as councilmen-at-large. Four Democrats are to compete for three nominations, while five Republicans are in the running.

Aside from those contests, other balloting at the primaries will be perfunctory as each party offers only one aspirant for any of the offices, and even this is omitted in the case of Democratic City Auditor Paul L. Kelley, whose 23 years service in that office has been such as to discourage opposition.

Another vacancy on the Republican primary ticket is that of Fifth ward councilman, the impression seeming to be. "Why bother, as long as Fred Miller is willing to stay on the job?"

Otherwise, however, the November election promises some interesting contests, so what matter if the primaries don't amount to much.

Lilienthal Explains the Difference

IN THE MIDST of so much confusion as to the relative merits of such concepts of government as "democracy," "communism," "socialism," "monarchy," "totalitarianism," and the like, it is particularly timely for readers to have at hand such a clear-cut statement of views on "democracy" as was given by David Lilienthal before the senate atomic energy committee, in reply to an attack made by Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, who is viciously opposing senate confirmation of Lilienthal's appointment as chairman of the atomic energy commission.

Thomas L. Stokes, in his column on this page today, deems Lilienthal's analysis of essential differences between democracy and communism worthy of considerable space, and the purpose of this reference is to direct the attention of all readers to this particular article, with the suggestion that it deserves thoughtful consideration by all Americans—especially by young people who may be inclined to take "democracy" for granted, rather than having a clear understanding of what it really means.

To Reveal Withheld Lincoln Data

LINCOLN'S birthday anniversary reminds Americans that 21 years ago, when Robert Todd Lincoln died, his will left to the Library of Congress 135 manuscript boxes containing his father's private papers. The will stipulated that their contents should not be made public until this year.

Among those who have made a hobby of collecting Lincolniana much speculation has gone on as to the contents of these boxes. The more romantically inclined expect to hear details of Lincoln's early romance with Ann Rutledge, while those who lean toward tragedy are looking for substantiation of the claim that one of the martyred president's cabinet members plotted his death.

Whether these papers, yellowed by time, and given perspective by the passage of more than eighty years, contain romance, tragedy, or the most routine of records, the world awaits with interest the revelation of their contents.

Steubenville Ponders a Problem

STEUBENVILLE which has been having quite a stir over the pro and con of law enforcement, now seems to be toying with the idea of a city manager form of government as a substitute for the present system, which is similar to that of Mansfield.

In any event, the point has been reached at which 300 members of the Steubenville Chamber of Commerce replied to a questionnaire on the subject. Report is that 68 per cent of the responses favored a change to the city manager plan—which at least indicates a trend, even if confined to a limited canvass.

A daring traveler venturing into the wilds of New York found a restaurant where pie cost 75 cents. It recalls the $2.50 traditionally charged in night clubs for scrambled eggs. This was a pre-war price. Maybe now $7.50?

It shouldn't cause surprise that 92 per cent of present-day school children never heard of Horatio Alger, jr—some of them seem never to have heard of a spelling book.

A bass drum is reported among articles unclaimed in a Boston depot—but surely the absent-minded owner will miss it before long.

Claude Callan suggests: "The government should write indolence insurance, paying a man a good salary when he is too lazy to work."

A Canton woman is seeking another divorce from the same man she has married three times—monotonous isn't it.

As litigation moves along in a deliberate way it is now being referred to as "courtal-to-courtal."

TURNED INTO A REGULAR BARBECUE

Pearson Says Navy Brass Hats Sell Automobiles In Shanghai

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — While the navy is handing out prison terms to enlisted men who sell cigarets on the Shanghai black market, and while the enlisted men's barracks in Shanghai—an abandoned warehouse—are almost unfit for human habitation, the high-ranking admirals continue to get away with murder.

An admiral can sell his car on the Shanghai market at an exorbitant price—$8,200—can ship it to Shanghai at Government expense on an LST boat, can use government radio communications at priority rates to arrange for the deal—and nothing happens. But if an enlisted man sells a carton of cigarets in Shanghai—he's out of luck.

To illustrate, here is the almost unbelievable series of radiograms exchanged between Adm C M Cooke, jr, commander of U S naval forces in the Western Pacific, and his friends regarding the sale of an automobile, presumably his. Admiral Cooke, now at sea, was not available for comment, but the radiograms tell their own story. Here they are:

"From Admiral Cooke to Lt. Commander Cornell, probably at Suite B, Cathay Hotel 'Car being transhipped from Okinawa on LST 1141 departing 5 October and probably due Shanghai 7 October. You are authorized to remain in Shanghai or to return here for further return to Shanghai probably 6 October.

"'Your suggestion of putting binder on car for seven hundred dollars approved'."

Admirals of course, believe in helping admirals. So, later, Rear Adm Apollo Soucek, now commander of Fleet Air Wing 1, radioed Admiral Cooke regarding the shipment of the automobile from Okinawa:

"Captain Connelly assumed personal charge and advised that shipment would be made LST 1141 about 5 October. I am not sure actual sailing date First information addressee requested notify Admiral Cooke estimated time of arrival of LST 1141 in Shanghai."

* * *

$8,200 For An Auto.

Following this, Lt. Com. Wallace Cornell was supposed to handle the Shanghai end of the motor deal but momentarily was without orders to be in Shanghai Therefore, he sent the following message from Tsingtao to Lt. Com Shaul, in charge of Shanghai port facilities·

"Please contact Mr. Paul Meyer at Mark L Moody. Instruct him to make contact on basis he and I discussed. Advise earliest."

Lt Com Shaul was right on the job Paul Meyer, referred to above, was the agent for the Mark L Moody company, one of Shanghai's largest auto-trading companies and after contacting Meyer Shaul sent the following message back to Lt. Com. Cornell·

"$200 net best bid. Meyer requests instructions"

But the $8200 offer by Meyer was not sufficient, even though most automobiles in the United States sell for only a fraction of this price So Lt Com. Cornell wired back to Lt Com Shaul again at priority rates and again at government expense

"Inform Meyer we will accept $700 net We will pay customs Advise Cornell USN Port Facility Tsingtao."

Shaul, however, was not able to get the higher price of $8700 Furthermore, the original offer of $8200 also fizzled for he radioed back to Lt. Com Cornell in Tsingtao

'First deal fell through Meyer working on another Where is Joe? All of us worried Snaul'

And that is the story of how the admirals permit government transport and government radio facilities to be used to sell automobiles on the Shanghai market while enlisted men are jailed for selling cigarets

CIO-AFL Economists

Former War Production Board economist Bob Nathan was disturbed the other day to read an attack upon his analysis of corporation profits released by AFL economist B. T. Green. Nathan therefore called Margaret Scattergood, one of the AFL's top economists, to ask her about it.

"Who wrote that analysis of my report, Margaret?" he asked.

"I wrote it," replied Miss Scattergood.

"Well, I just want to ask you one question," Nathan said "Did you read my report before you wrote it?"

"No," replied the AFL economist.

* * *

Knutson's Rebuff.

Congressional leaders hushed it up, but one of the oldest traditions of Capitol history was broken when the senate-house joint budget committee rejected babbling Congressman Knutson of Minnesota as its chairman and elected New York's John Taber instead.

Always in the past the man chosen to head up joint committees that deal with budget and tax problems has been the chairman of the house ways and means committee—in this case, Knutson. This is because the ways and means is the first and the oldest house committee, as well as the creator of all other house committees It initiates all tax legislation for both the house and senate.

However, when the joint budget committee was organized, chatterbox Knutson, chairman of ways and means, was deliberately passed over by his own Republican colleagues in favor of Taber. To make the rebuff all the more humiliating, Knutson was actually presiding at the time it happened.

The Minnesotan expected to remain in the chair after his perfunctory nomination for permanent chairman, but alert GOP Rep. Everett Dirksen of Illinois rose in the closed session and moved the nomination of Taber instead.

As if by a prearranged signal, Clarence Cannon of Missouri, the retiring Democratic appropriations chairman, was on his feet with a seconding speech. Other members responded with a resounding, unanimous vote of approval

For once the usually pompous Knutson was speechless. He turned ashen white but said nothing.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

On February 7 1873, the United States trade dollar 400 fine, was substituted for the old silver dollar

Dave Boone Says:

IN Judge Picard's Detroit court the judge, the lawyers and the witnesses are standing stop-watches in their hands, trying to figure out how many steps a worker takes per minute and to see how far off most people are when they estimate the duration of a minute. I hope we get movies of it as the picture houses are short of comedy

* * *

One worker, asked to speak up when she thought a full minute had passed, spoke up in fourteen seconds Another was wrong by three or four seconds more There were no cash prizes and no jackpot, although it looked like the judge might drop his watch any moment and ask "Now, do you want to go for the $64?"

* * *

It saddened the country to see Admiral Marc Mitscher go There was something about our admirals and that old Black Jack Pershing's cap that added pep to hope during the tough days the war Marc with Task Force 58 shoved the Japs back, possibly the moves of Iwo and Okinawa

* * *

What a mess we are in today it Mitscher had stopped to figure how many inches he moved in a minute and if it was worth it enough in it for him!

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

THE state department denies that we are interested in purchasing Greenland . the feeling seems to be that we own enough cold weather now

* * *

So far Greenland is the only item that hasn't turned up on a war surplus list but inventory hasn't been completed.

* * *

We had as surplus, as nearly as I can figure out, enough cameras to photograph each Nazi individually, enough dental equipment to penetrate the Siegfried line with small drills, and enough cigaret lighters to warm the population of Europe for three years.

* * *

Then there are the ads for surplus lipsticks face powder and perfume If we couldn't lick 'em obviously we were going to lure 'em

* * *

Of course the stuff didn't get to the boys and girls but it sure looked pretty piled up in the warehouses . at cost-plus

As Others See It

Here's An Idea.

It is a mistake for the government to try to support too many people. It should support only those who have reached our present age—Kansas City Times.

Assignment: America

—By KENNETH L. DIXON

Some Strange Ideas Of "Keeping Secret."

WASHINGTON — Sometimes when you are covering stories, both in war and in peace, one development alone is enough to frighten you.

Sometimes it requires two different developments to bring that fright—and often it comes only after you have considered each of them separately and noted nothing particularly fearful.

To begin with, it seems generally agreed on Capitol Hill and elsewhere around Washington that until some workable sort of international control is established, we must keep our atomic secrets to ourselves.

It is a simple matter of survival, if nothing else.

So, there was no argument on that score the other day when the joint senate-house atomic committee was in session, carefully considering appointments to this country's atomic control commission.

However, an argument of sorts did develop concerning whether military men should sit in on all the commission's future sessions. During the course of that discussion, a side-issue was suggested by Senator Knowland, a California Republican.

The senator said that he thought congressional representatives also should be present at such sessions, and that the joint legislative committee should have some of its members sit in with the commission on all atomic actions.

The suggestion brought solemn nods of approval from several committeemen Iowa's Republican Senator Hickenlooper subsequently said sternly that the rights of both military men and lawmakers to know the inside activities of the atomic commission will be made very clear before the subject is settled.

Senators McMahon (D-Conn.) and Vandenberg (R-Mich.) got into some heated discussion about how much atomic information the average congressman should be given, but otherwise no one seemed particularly upset about the suggestion.

At the time, that is.

Then, another day the joint congressional committee took Bernard Baruch behind locked doors to hear some secret testimony about the atomic commission and project.

Presumably, Baruch's testimony was considered too secret and too dangerous to publicize at the moment Otherwise, the little ceremony of locking out the public and the reporters would have seemed somewhat pointless, not to mention ridiculous.

Nevertheless, within a matter of hours (almost minutes, actually) after the committee room doors were unlocked and the congressmen back in circulation, reports were moving out over the air waves and teletypes to the effect that,

1—Baruch told the committee that a Russian atomic spy ring may have been revived to steal the secret of the atom bomb;

2—Baruch indicated that the Russians had been successful in obtaining considerable hitherto secret atomic information,

3—The elder statesman further hinted that perhaps the Russians didn't yet know how really important was the information they possessed;

4—Finally, Baruch strongly suggested a military man as general manager of the atomic program.

Those reports went out to the world, including Moscow. If correct, it might seem that perhaps such secrets should have been kept—as long as international atomic control remains but a gleam in the UN security council's eye.

And there seems little doubt but that they were correct, at least in the main Even competing papers carried strikingly similar stories and the reporters (who, incidentally were only doing their job, as long as the congressmen were going to talk at all of the secrets) said their sources were committee members.

So, somehow now there is something frightening about the idea of giving access to the innermost atomic commission secrets to any number of congressmen . men who are only human after all . . . men to whom publicity is election bread-and-butter . . . and men who have neither the time nor scientific background to realize fully the deadly potency of some little atom of information they may possess.

Two Terms Enough.

The historic moment seems at hand when congress will initiate and in due time thereafter, three-fourths of the states no doubt will ratify an amendment to the constitution limiting future presidents to two four-year terms

As Speaker Martin and Michigan's Rep Michener, chairman of the house judiciary committee, say, the arguments on presidential tenure have been fully recorded. There is no occasion for more extensive hearings

Two terms are enough!

Thoughtful views we believe, predicate entirely on the desirability of giving this guarantee against the rise in the future of a dictatorship To do so is desirable at nome and is particularly desirable as a showing to other nations of our adherence to democratic principles of government.—Detroit News

Democracy As An Affirmative Doctrine.

WASHINGTON — Every now and then a man comes along to dispel the confusion that envelops us and our thinking and gives us a creed by which we can guide ourselves in troublous times.

Thus did David Lilienthal, appointed chairman of the atomic energy commission. He spoke out after once again being pilloried by Senator McKellar (D., Tenn.) before the senate atomic energy committee, as he was pilloried by the senator through his years as head of TVA.

The senator wanted know "his views on the communistic doctrine" Because of the way he put it, this column herewith is given over to his reply, as follows:

"My convictions are not so much concerned with what I am against as what I am for; and that excludes a lot of things automatically. Traditionally democracy has been an affirmative doctrine rather than merely a negative one.

"I believe—and I so conceive the Constitution of the United States to rest upon, as does religion—the fundamental proposition of the integrity of the individual; and that government and all private institutions must be designed to promote and protect the integrity and the dignity of the individual; that that is the essential meaning of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights, as it is essentially the meaning of religion.

"Any form of government, therefore, and any other institutions, which make men means rather than ends, which exalts the state or any other institution above the importance of men, which places arbitrary power over men as a fundamental tenet of government, or any other institutions, are contrary to that conception, and therefore I am deeply opposed to them.

"The Communistic philosophy, as well as the Communistic form of government, fall within this category: for their fundamental tenet is quite to the contrary The fundamental tenet of Communism is that the state is an end in itself, and that therefore the powers which the state exercises over the individual are without any ethical standards to limit them. That I deeply disbelieve.

"It is very easy simply to say one is not a Communist. And of course, if my record requires me to state that very affirmatively, then it is a great disappointment to me It is very easy to talk about being against Communism. It is equally important to believe those things which provide a satisfying and effective alternative. Democracy is that satisfying, affirmative alternative.

"Its hope in the world is that it is an affirmative belief, rather than being simply a belief against something else and nothing more. One of the tenets of democracy that grows out of this eternal core of a belief that the individual comes first, that all men are the children of God, and their personality is therefore sacred, carries with it a great belief in civil liberties and their protection, and a repugnance to anyone who would steal from a human being that which is most precious to him, his good name; either by impugning things to him by innuendo, or insinuation. And it is especially an unhappy circumstance that occasionally that is done in the name of democracy. This I think is something that can tear our country apart and destroy it—if we carry it further.

"I deply believe in the capacity of democracy to surmount any trials that may lie ahead, provided only we practice it in our daily lives.

"And among the things we must practice is, that while we seek to ferret out the subversive and anti-democratic forces in the country we do not at the same time, by hysteria, besmirch the very cause that we believe in, and cause a separation of our people, cause one group and one individual to hate another based upon mere attacks, merely unsubstantiated attacks upon loyalty.

"I want also to add that part of my conviction is based upon training as an Anglo-American common lawyer. It is the basis and the great heritage of the English people to this which we have maintained—that the strictest rules of witnesses and of the avoidance of hearsay and gossip shall be excluded in courts of justice, and that, too, is an essential of our democracy.

"And whether by administrative agencies acting arbitrarily against business organizations, or whether by investigating activities by the legislative branches—whenever these principles of the protection of an individual and his good name against besmirchment by gossip, hearsay and the statements of witnesses who are not subject to cross-examination, then, to, we have failed in carrying forward our ideals in respect to democracy.

"That I deeply believe"

Senator McKellar must have understood that.

Why It's Hard to "Get Along" With Russia.

WASHINGTON—On three separate occasions, the state department has sent polite notes to Moscow suggesting that it was time to begin discussing what to do about the ships that Russia obtained from the United States under lend-lease. Three times these polite notes have been ignored.

It is one of the curious phases of a strange relationship that exists in a shadowy region between friendship and enmity. You can't negotiate with a man or a nation when the man or the nation simply pays no attention to the communications you send.

That is one of the baffling qualities of the present effort to "get along" with Russia It illustrates the difficulties that Secretary of State Marshall faces in preparing for the forthcoming Big Four conference in Moscow.

Altogether, 125 of our merchant ships were transferred to the Soviet Union as part of the war effort. Some time ago, 26 of these ships were returned It is believed that 95 are still being operated under the Soviet flag. This includes 48 dry-cargo vessels, of which 36 are Liberty ships. The rest are for most part tankers and tugs

The circumstances under which the ships were turned over to the USSR give this situation an even more peculiar twist than it seems to have on the surface

They were turned over when the Soviets were not at war with Japan A considerable number of the ships were for use in the Pacific. They plied between ports on our west coast and the Russian port of Vladivostok, carrying vast quantities of lend-lease supplies

When these Pacific ships were transfered, they were turned over outright to the Soviet Union, which operated them as though they had been bought and paid for. This was done because of the fact that Russia was not at war with Japan It was thought that if these merchant ships were merely on a lend-lease basis, then they would be subject to seizure by the Japanese. In any event, it was a curious procedure, since they ran right past Japan's front door with supplies and munitions intended to smash Japan's ally in Europe

The Russians may think, of course, that since the ships were given to them, they are theirs for keeps. Therefore why should anybody bother to waste any time talking about it?

State department negotiators are reluctantly coming to that conclusion

From Moscow recently has come criticism of the increasingly close relationship between Britain and the United States The Russians apparently look on this friendship with dark suspicion. But in part at least, it grows out of the honest and straightforward agreements lived up to during the war

A little less suspicion, a little more frankness on the part of the Russians might clear the way for a similar relationship with the Soviet Union

Farmer's Diary: "Luggage For a Trip."

ONE of my favorite nieces, recently married writes that she is planning for a year's trip with her new husband through India. What to take along . . . I started speculating If I should take such a trip as that . . . travelers cheques aplenty, a small sound piece of luggage, with a good fountain pen, blank paper and a few changes of clothing

But there would be other items that could not be left behind The lovely panorama of years while my young family grew, from the wee baby face of our first born through the toddling steps of each husky adventurous lad Babies were luxuries I would want to carry with me the joy of our times together—the long walks with daughter, the four boys and I in the woodland, or with axes on the slope That strange sweet companionship of youth with age—our eager plans for each oncoming year.

I'd want to take along the memory of the beaming face of my wife when we share together a lovely thought adventure . . . and the health and joy of deeper living that has been our portion. Perhaps the sincere quiet moments of a companionship are most articulate

I'd take along the rising odors of the soil along Honey Creek, the liquid call of the first meadow lark, the hollow throaty rattle of the belted kingfisher I'd not forget the wild flowers so numerous in many places that whited petals make a solid carpet. The modest bloodroot by the old worn fence, the soft fragrant purple violet, the wallflower, the lily-white trillium the ivory dogwood bracts

And sweet would be the perfume of one blooming rose stalk by our cottage door.

I'd want to keep the picture of last night's sunset, with little clouds like islets in a golden sea. Silence over all the hills and valleys, in honor of the scene.

And in some lonelier day I'd want to see the blue smoke rise high and lazily above our kitchen chimney—smell the coffee brewing and the ham sizzling in the skillet . . .

"Prince not the gold bars of thy treasury,
Not all thy jeweled scepters, crowns and rings.
Are with the honeycomb of one wild bee—
So runs my catalog of lovely things"

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

Broadway Bulletin Board—"Slim" (Mrs. Howard) Hawks, recently named the best dressed woman in America, is ready to make the news pages again, her intimates believe. Her estranged husband is the Hollywood director . . . Gov. Tom Dewey has been holding off-the-record powwows (anent the 1948 presidential elections) at the Waldorf-Astoria. . . . You think the entertainment business isn't skidding? One of the nation's top singing stars recently received $10,000 for a one-night personal appearance in a Connecticut city. He drew only 350 customers. The promoter lost $11,000.

Reports persist that Marlene Dietrich and Rudy Sieber at last have agreed to make their friendly rift legal. . . . That pretty blonde with Jimmy Stewart on his recent visit was Thelma Stevens, a Conover model. . . . Hollywood heart throb authorities are betting that Mike Todd and Joan Blondell will renew the Old Feeling. . . . Sterling Hayden (Madeleine Carroll's ex-husband) will waltz down the aisle with Betty De Noon, a model. . . . Elizabeth Short, the "Black Dahlia" of the California murder case, was a waitress at Pappy's, in Miami Beach, in 1941. . . . It was a hangout for the Broadway cafe set on vacation.

Reese Milner, Ann Miller's recently discarded bridegroom, has found consolation—socialite Virginia Norcross. . . . If the 20 per cent luxury tax remains in effect, entertainment impresarios expect the business to take one of the biggest slides in history. . . . You can buy tickets to most shows just by going to the box offices. "Joan of Lorraine" and "Finian's Rainbow" are two of the exceptions. . . . Bette Davis' baby is expected in late April or early May. . . . The husband of a newly imported foreign star has been asked to stay off the Hollywood sets when she's working. "He directs the directors," her bosses complain.

Sonja Henie is playing the field again, despite young Stewart Barthelmess' adoration. . . . Danny Kaye, who is drawing $20,000 per week at the Copa in Miami, isn't pulling in any more customers than Frances Faye did. The reason, natives believe, isn't Danny; it's the $7.50 minimum for liquor only. . . . The Mickey Rooney split-up story was reported here Dec. 16. . . . Freddie Martin, the bandleader, is playing his prettiest tunes for Joan Caulfield's ear. . . . This is getting laughs wherever the film is shown: In "No Leave, No Love," Keenan Wynn tells Van Johnson: "I don't care if you don't want to be my friend, I'm still going to be your best friend. And whether you like it or not I'm going to be best man at your wedding!"

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, February 8.

WITH a definite program of amiable, moderate and well-directed and regulated conduct, in personal and in business relations, there is much promise of a gainful, progressive and expansive day, with happy and gratifying relations on the many contacts and objectives in life. The careful and sagacious consideration of affairs of major consequence, in which busiess transactions, finance, credit and personal prestige are at stake is very important. The easy flowing of all such to desired benefits could be blocked or diverted by rash, intemperate or petulant conduct, provoking friction or grief.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of increased opportunity, advancement, favors, and solid growth of cherished objectives, with much of lucrative and happy long-range security. All phases of life, business, domestic, professional and affectional affiliations, are involved and should flourish and win place and power.

A child born on this day may need careful early training and discipline, as it may have a petulant, unhappy and wayward disposition to shatter its best hopes and prospects.

U. N. Report Calls for All-out Farm Production to Feed World

FARM SECURITY NECESSARY TO GAIN RESPONSE

Commission Disapproves All Programs Calling For Crop Restrictions.

WASHINGTON— (U.P.) —International proposals on how to build a well-nourished world call for continued all-out farm production.

Boiled down, the recommendations mean that farmers should be relieved of fear of surpluses and keep up their war-time production record for the benefit of the undernourished segments of the world's population.

Whether the family of nations —and most particularly this government—can give the farmer the assurances he must have to take the inevitable risks involved is a major question mark.

The proposals are contained in the report of the preparatory commission on world food proposals of the U. N. Food and Agriculture Organization.

Any of its recommendations would be subject to approval, first, by FAO and then to negotiation between nations participating in the overall program.

Against Restriction.

Asking surplus production from farmers already concerned about the future—after 1948, at least, when the price support program is scheduled to die—is a rather large order.

But the commission report sums up its views of the future in these words: "It is sometimes too readily assumed that the only way to secure reasonable prices for agriculture producers is by restriction of production. The commission rejects the proposition that restriction must be the first and supporting pillar in a system of price stabilization."

Under that philosophy, the commission then recommended food agreements which would contain provisions for:

(1) Price ranges or fixed prices for commercial sales on the world market.

(2) Working stocks, held by each nation to cover its own requirements.

(3) Reserve stocks for famine emergences, to be held nationally for use on internationally agreed terms with the World Food Council of FAO authorized for shipments to meet urgent demands. This would be in the nature of first-aid to countries where starvation is apt to be a grim actuality. Carrying costs and losses occurred in famine distribution would be shared equitably by participating nations.

For Price Stabilization.

(4) Price stabilization reserves, or buffer stocks, nationally held and administered under internationally agreed rules. This device would be used against short-term fluctuations, with the holder buying when prices reach the floor and selling them when they reach the ceiling agreed upon

(5) Sales at special prices for disposition to people in need of products for which there is no commercial demand at reasonable prices.

(6) Export or import quotas—subject to certain safeguards.

The commission sets forth as its major belief that it would be impossible materially to increase production and consumption or effectively to stabilize prices except "in a setting of an expanding world economy."

Previous Experience Cited.

Then it points out that following World War I, "after the devastated areas were restored and the world was restocked and re-equipped, it was found that the world could not absorb the increased production which the war had stimulated"—a grim fact which most farmers know too well.

The result of that, as the commission put it, "was the economic and financial crisis and the human tragedies of the nineteen-thirties."

If nothing is done, the international group declared, "to absorb the infinitely greater production which our efforts in World War II have stimulated, we may find ourselves heading for a greater disaster than in 1929

"The result may be millions out of work, an unparalleled business recession, and social and economic unrest, with renewed pressures for restriction and production."

Behind the recommendations lies the suggestion that the American farmer still has many years of world feeding before him.

Galion Board Deficit Passes $11,000 Mark

GALION—An overdraft of $11,-[illegible]8.71 in the general fund of the Galion board of education was revealed last night by Clerk Isabel Monroe.

The board took action to request the county auditor for an advance of $25,000 to cover expenses until the first foundation program check from the State Department of Education is received.

The board also accepted the resignation of Mrs. Eleanor Rose, effective today, as teacher in the East Elementary school, due to the housing situation. She will be replaced by Mrs Ruth Neal, of 306 Mansfield street, who was hired by the board to complete the school term.

The tentative date for the Crawford County Health Council free chest X-Rays for Galion pupils in grades 9 through 12 on an optional basis has been set for April 28.

Supt M. A. Povenmire reported that Robert Reese and C A. Felker met with school personnel and three members of the Advisory committee for vocational education on Jan 27. The members of the Advisory committee present were Fred Biszantz, Charles Tracht and A. W. Brown.

An explanation of Type B vocational education program was discussed by Mr. Reese. This includes a four-hour continuous period of machine shop theory and practice and would permit pupils in this course to take more work in the academic subjects.

PLANS LAID FOR TIRO FIRE UNIT

TIRO—Plans for the establishment of a joint Tiro-Auburn township fire department were nearing completion today following a conference held earlier this week in Tiro.

A joint meeting of the mayor and council of the village of Tiro and the trustees of Auburn township was held Tuesday night with Crawford County Prosecutor Leo J. Scanlon.

Both the council and the board of trustees agreed to have Scanlon draw up an agreement and the necessary ordinance and resolution for adoption by the council and trustees

The two bodies will meet next Monday to prepare for enactment of the legislation and name a committee of three members to purchase fire equipment.

Tentative plans call for the selection of Mayor Frank Sutter of Tiro and Trustee Walter Ervin of Auburn township to serve on the committee. The two would choose a third member from the two bodies.

As agreed at the meeting, each of the two bodies will pay half of the expense of purchasing and maintaining the fire fighting equipment.

The Tiro Business club will transfer to the committee a fund raised by the club for a fire equipment fund. In addition, the club itself will donate $400.

PONTIAC

Because of their goodness and beauty—and their wonderful war-won reputation for dependability—the Pontiac Silver Streaks are in unusual demand. Furthermore, because of strikes and material shortages, production at the factory has not reached the levels which had confidently been expected. As a result, some of you who wish to order Pontiacs will experience delay in delivery. In order that you may know just how we are handling the cars which we receive from Pontiac, we publish below the major points of our distributing policy.

The Sooner You Order Your Pontiac the Quicker You'll Get It

It is obvious that—regardless of any priorities which may be involved—the sooner you order your Pontiac the earlier you will get it. So place your order now for future delivery.

Your Order Will Be Filled According to These Priorities

We feel duty bound to give preference in the order of delivery to certain users whose work is in the public welfare, and to veterans with certain occupational requirements. Otherwise, your order for a Pontiac will be filled on the basis of the date it is received.

We Want Your Order Whether You Have a Used Car or Not

We need used cars to take care of our regular used car customers and will give the highest appraisals possible on the basis of current values. We think you will find it to your advantage if you trade your car to us. But whether or not you have a used car, we want your order for a new Pontiac.

You Will Pay the Prices Which Are Current at Time of Delivery

We have at all times a published list of current Pontiac delivered prices in this community. That is the price you will be asked to pay when your car is ready for delivery.

Your Pontiac Will Come Equipped as You Specify on Your Order

Insofar as factory production of accessories will permit, your car will be equipped as you want it. You do not need to purchase equipment you may not want in order to get a new Pontiac.

We Will Give You Our Best Estimate as to Delivery Date

Due to conditions beyond our control, we cannot say exactly when your car will be delivered. However, when you place your order, and at any time after that, we will give you our best estimate of when you may get your car But we say again that, regardless of the "wait"—you will get your car earlier if you place your order now.

GALION TO HAVE FOUR CONTESTS IN MAY PRIMARY

No Other Elections Slated In Crawford County.

GALION—Four contests on the Galion political slate gives Galion the distinction of having the only primary election on May 6 in Crawford county.

Candidates who filed petitions for municipal offices before the deadline Wednesday night, at the courthouse in Bucyrus were:

Harry T. Jackson, businessman and proprietor of the Texaco service station who will be unopposed on the Republican ticket for mayor.

Mayor William Amann who will seek his fourth term in office will be opposed on the Democratic ticket by Dr. H. H. Hartmann, former mayor of Galion for nine terms, who re-entered the race this year. Dr. Hartmann served three terms from 1910 to 1916, two terms from 1920 to 1924, and four terms from 1926 to 1934.

* * *

Eichhorn Enters Race.

A newcomer in Galion politics is Herman F. Eichhorn, manager of the Galion Equity Exchange, who will run for president of the council on the Republican ticket.

Lester H. Tupps, former First ward councilman, M. G. Thompson and Roma W. Stall will seek the three offices of councilmen-at-large which are being vacated by Democrats this year.

Carl Edwards was named in the First ward for council, John A. "Andy Anker in the Third ward, and Ralph W. Graham in the Fourth ward, all on the Republican ticket. No Republicans filed for other city offices or for councilman from the Second ward, which is now held by William H. Kunkel, Democrat, who is unopposed in the primary election.

* * *

Three-Way Fight.

Besides the mayoralty position, Democrats have a three-way race for solicitor between Francis M. Shumaker, incumbent, George W. Coble and George H. Davies. In the First ward, O. E. Neal and William H. Hearn will contest for the council post being vacated by Fred Sautter, also a Democrat.

Four men filed for councilman-at-large. John Voss, Floyd O. Myers, Clyde Richardson and Elmer L. Thatcher, when William Barr, a veteran councilman, decided to retire along with Arthur A. Connor and Harry L. Volk, now serving.

Other Democratic candidates are Otto Pfeifer, president of council; Gloyd A. Frye, auditor; Miss Clio Kreiter, treasurer, Richard L. Ganshorn, third ward councilman, and W. F. Fetter, Fourth ward councilman. Oscar L. Rensch, Fourth ward councilman, has declined to seek reelection.

TO APPEAR IN GALION—The Harmonaires, a singing group of 12 male voices, will appear in a program next Thursday in the Senior high school auditorium. The program is sponsored by the Young Adult Sunday School class of the First Reformed church of Galion.

Galion to Hear Vocal Group In Benefit Program Thursday

GALION—Music lovers of this vicinity will have the opportunity next week of hearing the Harmonaires, who will appear in a varied program at Senior high school auditorium at 8:15 p. m. Thursday.

The blending of 12 male voices has brought nation-wide popularity to the young men who make up "The Harmonaires," heard each Sunday over WLW, Cincinnati.

The program in Galion is sponsored by the Young Adult Sunday school class of First Reformed church. Proceeds from the entertainment will go to the Ft. Wayne Children's home.

The Harmonaires started as a quartet when four of its members were doing war work in Columbus, just before Pearl Harbor. Gradually the size of the organization was increased until it reached its present number of twelve.

An important step in its history was the adding of a director. His name is Raylan Reid, a Columbus lawyer, graduate of Ohio State university Law School and Willforce university.

During the war, "The Harmonaires" were running a full-time engagement schedule and were booked ahead for months. They made many appearances for the war effort and in 1944 went to Washington, D. C., to sing for capacity crowds at the Stage Door Canteen.

COUNTY HOME PACT REACHED

BUCYRUS—Faced with charges of alleged "inhuman" treatment of residents and mail "censorship," an agreement has been reached between Supt. Harold L. Dinkel of the Crawford county home and the county commissioners.

The agreement was made following a conference this week attended by Probate Judge Constance R Keller; Dr. Jack Arnold, county home physician, Atty O. K. Bender, who represented the commissioners, and a press representative.

The meeting was called by County Prosecutor Leo J. Scanlon in the face of a blanket denial by Dinkel of charges made by three relatives of county home residents 10 days ago.

Dinkel, however, was ordered to see that none of the inmates' mail was opened or censored; to treat residents in a "more humane" manner, and to improve the physical condition of the home.

Commissioner Heinlen said that open jet gas flames in the rooms had been replaced by electric bulbs. He also said "we are going to fix the place up."

ASHLAND ROTARY PLANS FARM NIGHT

ASHLAND — Rotary Farmer's night will be the evening of Feb. 25 when County Agricultural Agent Norman H. Shilliday is in charge of arrangements. The speaker will be C. F. Christian of Columbus, extension economist at Ohio State university. His theme will be "Main Street's Stake in Agriculture."

Rotary Ladies' night is announced for February 18 with Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Myers in charge of arrangements.

Harry L. Hess will be chairman Tuesday at the regular noon meeting. The speaker will be Edward T. Cheyfitz of Washington, D. C. assistant to Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association.

ASHLAND BOARD HEARS REQUEST FOR EXPANSION

City Council Also Considering Rezoning, Water Survey.

ASHLAND — Rezoning of the city, expansion of the water system, co-ordination of the city and county health departments are some of the problems discussed by city council in its regular meetings and various recess ses ions this week.

The planning commission, composed of E. H. Taylor, Robert Henderson and William Stahl, recommended to councilmen the following additions to business and industrial zones of the city:

BUSINESS—West Main street, properties at the east side of Broad street; Cleveland road, from Kahn avenue to the corporation limits; East Second, Third and Commercial avenue from Center to Union streets; Lincoln Way west from Mifflin avenue to the corporation limit.

INDUSTRIAL — Approximately one block on each side of the Erie railroad within corporation limits; the north side of East Ninth street at the site of the old Patterson property; both sides of Clark avenue from Seventh street north to Eighth street; the area between North Center and Union and Commercial and Fourth streets.

Regarding the city water survey, Mayor Glenn B. Haller said applications have been received from 11 consulting engineers and that a meeting will be called soon to select one of the group to survey Ashland's needs.

The city health board and the county health board held their respective meetings Tuesday afternoon and evening. The chief topic of discussion was the advisability of co-ordinating the two departments and the employment of a health commissioner. Dr. Charles Kincaid of Eau Claire, Was., was interviewed at both sessions as a possible commissioner.

ASHLAND—A former Ashland county resident, Mrs. Kathryn Mann Lawrence died in St. Petersburg, Florida, January 30. She was the widow of Rev. Harry Lawrence, a Methodist minister. She leaves two sisters, Mrs Sarah Sly of St. Petersburg and Mrs. Dora Wagner of Nebraska.

Expert Recommends Detailed Plan of City Lighting

WEAVER URGES CITY TO DRAFT FUTURE PLANS

Placing and Types of Lights Should Follow Needs of Traffic Flow.

By JOHN MINE.

(This is the second in a series of street lighting articles based on an interview with Stuart M. Weaver, authority on street lighting systems.)

Before Mansfield takes its first step toward an improved street lighting system, it should first have a detailed plan drawn by an independent consulting engineer.

This is the recommendation of Stuart M. Weaver, an authority on street lighting systems and executive vice-president of Ideal Electric company.

"It's just as important to have a plan for a street lighting system as it is to have one for a house," he declared, in outlining the methods of preparing that plan.

Although a program for improving the city's street lighting system is now only in the "talk" stage, Weaver says a detailed plan should be prepared now.

"It should be prepared now and used whether the city wants to add only one new light or a whole series of new lights," he said.

* * *

Plan Essential.

Weaver points out that if a city is to get the most out of its street lighting dollar and have lights installed which will be permanently useful and efficient, a plan is essential.

"Regardless of what a city spends for lighting it ought to spend it to the best advantage," he declared. "You can't do that without a plan. With a good plan a city will get two and one-half times more light for its dollar," he said.

In its simplest form, the lighting plan would show where each light is to go; the spacing between lights; how high each light will be and the size of the light and the type of fixture it goes into.

* * *

Depends on Traffic.

The placing and types of lights will depend primarily on the amount of traffic flow and upon the number of accidents in specific areas, Weaver explained.

"For instance," he continued, "if you've got a certain amount of water to carry off you dig a ditch so wide. It's the same with traffic. If you have a certain amount of traffic to move, you need a certain amount of light to make it flow safely," he pointed out.

"But you won't know how wide to dig your lighting 'ditch' if you don't have a plan," he warned. "Furthermore, if traffic flow changes in any particular area you won't know how to change your lights accordingly without a plan."

Cost $2,000 to $4,000.

With a plan, a city knows that a specific light is where it should be and doing the best job posible, Weaver pointed out. With a street lighting plan, a city will have the facts to lay before a utility when demanding improvements, he said.

Weaver estimates that suh a detailed plan should cost somewhere between $2,000 and $4,000. "It's the poorest economy to get a cheap survey and plan," he warned.

Mansfield conceivably could stand the cost of such a plan because it is now saving about $35,000 on its annual street lighting bill, he said.

In advising that a city should seek "independent" engineering help in drawing its lighting plan, Weaver admitted that it's "hard to find." He recommended, however, that a city "go to some city that has good lighting and attempt to borrow their engineer."

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

Where is no fault there is no blame,
And lacking these can be no shame.

Spike, the young Deer whose first antlers, two straight spikes, had dropped from his head, was so ashamed that he wanted to go off by himself and keep out of sight of everybody. He couldn't because the snow was too deep outside the "yard" of trodden paths wherein his family was spending the winter. He lagged behind the others so that they would not look at him, especially his twin sister, Daintyfoot, to whom he had felt superior because he had had antlers and she hadn't. He had been filled with pride that had made him boastful and had led him to strut and show off. Now that he had lost those antlers he was filled with shame.

Poor Spike. He was ashamed for the wrong thing. He was ashamed of his appearance without those two straight spikes on his head, which, after all, were not much to look at. What he should have been ashamed of, and the only real cause he had for shame, was his prideful boasting while he had had them. There was no shame at all in their loss. Spike simply wasn't old enough to know this. It had not entered his head that he could possibly lose anything so hard and so much a part of him as those small antlers had been, and not by an accident, either.

He had supposed that he would always have those antlers, that somehow as he grew they would grow until when he was as big as his father those antlers would have grown many points like the latter's wonderful crown. It was no more wonderful to him to think that they would grow that way than it was that they had grown in the first place. What had really happened was just what happens to boys and girls when they lose their first teeth. When the time is right those first teeth loosen and come out, so that new and bigger and better teeth may grow in their place. It was just so with these antlers. They had loosened and dropped so that new and bigger ones might grow to replace them. Had Spike known this he would have felt very differently. He couldn't know that he ever would have any more.

So young Spike hung his head, sulked, and tried to keep by himself. He no longer tried to boss his sister. It was the other way around. He was so meek that she bossed him whenever she got the chance.

Meanwhile Lightfoot was still head of the family. All paid him the respect due his great size and strength and those smooth fighting points of that wonderful crown on his head. Looking at that crown Spike mournfully thought that he never could have a crown like that. His dreams of that were ended. With no antlers left to grow of course he could never have any. Anyway that is how it seemed to him, and probably to his twin sister. She couldn't know how he felt, for she never had had any and didn't want any. That is what she said anyway.

It was just a few days after his second antler fell that Spike had another shock as great as, if not greater than the discovery of his own loss. Still keeping away from the others he wandered into a path that led away from where the others were feeding. Lying in the snow beside the path, he saw what at first he took to be a branch of a tree from which all the bark had been stripped, leaving just bare sticks poking out of the snow. Prickly Porky the Porcupine sometimes left bare sticks like those. He pawed at them with a fore foot. It was then that he received the shock. This was no branch of a tree! This was—it couldn't be, but it was—that same horny substance as his antlers had been, and it was shaped very like half of that wonderful crown of his father's. Yes, sir, it was very like that. What did it mean? What could it mean?

For several long minutes he stood staring at his find. Then a snort behind him caused him to turn. There stood Lightfoot. He no longer looked handsome, proud and commanding. He looked queer, that kind of queerness that is called re-dicu-lous. You boys and girls would call it funny. He had only one antler, half a crown! It was hard to believe, but it was so. Did you wonder that Spike was shocked? Lightfoot shook his head. It semed to the young Deer that the half crown remaining on his father's head swayed as if loose.

"It must be my eyes," thought Spike.

The next story: "The Recovery."

FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

Rent Offers Problems

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — I am having landlady trouble. I don't mean with my own landlady, who is a woman of noble character, generous to a fault and also beautiful.

The landladies threatening to mop up the marble halls with me, because they didn't admire and item I did about 'em a couple of days ago, are the militant ones now bending the collective ear of the U. S. senate.

One testified that she'd rather die in her chair than do any more business with the OPA rent controllers. She shed a tear. Another said if she only could get rid of the bums now ruining her apartments, she'd give a month's free rent to decent tenants. As for Othman, the ladies said, nudging him with their reticules, he's obviously a Communist, or maybe worse.

I got out there alive because I am fleet of foot; I mention my own small troubles with the landladies only to point up the fact that no matter what congress does about rents, it'll be wrong. Or as Irwin A. Hoff, former director of the OPA in Seattle, told the senate banking and currency subcommittee:

"I'm glad it's your problem and not mine."

* * *

THE SENATORS sighed. They have got a few million renters in the country who want rent ceilings kept on and who have indicated, in fact, that rents are too high already. The lawmakers also have a few million property owners, including the lady who wants to die, who insist their buildings are falling into ruin along with themselves.

The committeemen thought they might get some good advice by calling in some leading real estate agents, but the experts couldn't agree, either.

Arthur W. Binns, portly real estate man from Philadelphia, said he thought all rent controls ought to come off immediately, but not to get him wrong because he never has had any troubles with the OPA.

"This is off the record," he said, lowering his voice. "It is just between you gentlemen and me. I . . ."

"You mean it is just between you and the rest of the world," suggested Gen. Glen W. Taylor of Idaho, glancing at the ladies and the gents of the press.

"Well, anyhow," said real estate agent Binns, "we actually have made a great deal of money under rent control in my office."

Sen. William J. Fulbright of Ark. wondered how come. Binns said that was easy. The OPA made so many house owners so sore they quit renting same and turned 'em over to him for sale. He made his money on five per cent commissions. The commissions kept getting bigger.

* * *

"HOUSES HAVE been sold and resold and resold again at an ever increasing price," he said. "Don't get the idea that we men in the real estate business are going to die under rent control.

Sen. Taylor, who once kept his wife and two children in hotel rooms here for nearly six months while he hunted for a place to live, said he could not get that idea. Later in the day Mrs. Marie Codd Cook of Baltimore, one of America's most successful realtors, disagreed with Binns.

She said keep rent controls on. If rents go up, so do property values and that, in her opinion, is inflation.

"I am afraid of inflation," she said.

The assembled landladies didn't exactly boo. Let's just say they looked down their noses. Then they converged on me. All talking at once. The memory is too painful for me to say more.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Georgia Case Mild

The contest for the office of governor of Georgia has been presented as an issue of democracy or fascism by former Governor Ellis Arnall's friends, including practically all of the totalitarian bleeding-hearts. The legal status of the governorship admittedly was left in complete doubt because the state constitution did not anticipate the situation created by the death of Gene Talmadge, who had beaten James V. Carmichael, Arnall's man in, the Democratic primary election. There is no clear title to the place.

The Arnall group immediately received the benefit of the propaganda machines of New York and Washington because Talmadge has the support of the Ku Klux Klan and kindred spirits who nevertheless are brothers under the skin of the organizations in New York which oppose the Klan, the Columbians et al. These northern terroristic lodges are as klannish in their own methods and for their own purposes as the southern klan and its new variations.

* * *

THEY DO NOT burn fiery crosses, but they do practice personal espionage, employing professional sneaks to betray confidences. They undertake to censor not only news but opinion and even humor, by threats of economic punishment, and, like the Klan and Adolf Hitler, they take reprisals against innocent relatives of defiant offenders against their arrogance.

The Arnall-Talmadge contest is much less outrageous against law and the stability of government than a scheme of President Roosevelt's party and President Truman's best friends to rob a Republican governor of his office in Missouri in 1941. Although that case did command considerable attention in the press across the nation, it did not evoke any comparable blast of indignation among those who are now most noisily horrified by the proceedings in Georgia. The reason was that, in the Missouri scheme, Robert Hannegan, then chairman of the Democratic city committee of St. Louis, now Mr. Truman's postmaster general, was a conspicuous opponent of the Republican who had been duly elected.

The Republican was Forrest C. Donnell, now a United States senator. The election of 1940 was close and Mr. Donnell defeated Lawrence McDaniel, the Democrat, by 3,613 votes.

* * *

A FEW DAYS after the November election, a meeting of Democrats was called in St. Louis, attended by Hannegan and C. Marion Hulen, the chairman of the Democratic state committee, and many others. The Democrats figured that Mr. Donnell's margin was so close that they might beat him in a recount if they could pick the precincts to be recounted. Accordingly, they put a resolution through the legislature providing for an "investigation" of "reports" of fraud involving the employment of a vague slush fund and irregularities in the count. The Democrats voted through a thing called "Joint Resolution No. 3" on Jan. 11, two days before inauguration day, which authorized a committee of six Democrats and four Republicans to recount the ballots. Although this committee had the power to examine all ballots, it also had authority to select only those precincts in which the Democratic majority might pick up votes to cut down Donnell's small official plurality. Meanwhile, the resolution forbade the speaker of the house to recognize Donnell as governor. An equal number of Democrats and Republicans were authorized to "attend" the recount, but that didn't mean a thing because only the members of the committee could vote and the committee was stacked six to four.

Mr. Donnell was kept out of office for 44 days by this slippery trick. He was not inaugurated until Feb. 26. Mr. McDaniel then started his contest in the regular, legal way. The legal recount began and Donnell gained steadily. When half the ballots had been counted his plurality had grown from 3,613 to about 7,000. On May 21, McDaniel dismissed his contest and wrote Governor Donnell admitting that the reports of fraud had been "greatly exaggerated."

Actress Gives Advice

A LADY THEY'LL be talking about in their anecdotage is Tallulah Bankhead. She penned a piece of advice for young thespians in "Theatre Handbook"; "An actor is the servant of the public . . . good manners are inexpensive." Why, Talu! . . . She stated that she loathed professional autographers who merely hold up the performer outside. But, "I do say that it is a discourtesy not to sign a programme or card when someone . . . waited patiently outside for your signature. That is a real compliment."

She once acquired a lion cub which she named Winston Churchill. When he got too rambunctious, she took him to the Bronx Zoo. While ceremonies and autographs were in progress, Cookie (an unimpressed baby chimpanzee) bit her.

* * *

Minnie Dupree (last wonderful in "Land's End") may be 70 for all we know. She once told an interviewer that she'd oozed sweetness in all her roles all her life and loved playing a murderess in "Murder at the Vanities," throwing acids, shooting people, and going stark mad at the end. It was so nice not to have to be sweet!

Lillian Russell once visited her backstage after "Heidelberg," one of her hits . . . "You!" Miss Russell said. "I'll never forgive you! You made me cry off all my make-up!"

Ina Claire, recently called America's most accomplished comedienne by critic Joseph Wood Krutch, was tutored and introduced by David Belasco . . . ("He took me from a 'Ziegfeld Follies'—not the chorus. I don't think I could have qualified for that!" . . . When Ina left his management (to general surprise) she had several reasons. She stated the most charming of them: "Think of his marvelous lighting. Who couldn't appear at better than her best under such lights? . . . So flattering I resented them. It wasn't quite sporting . . . I'd always had ambitions to become the kind of actress you see and feel on the stage even when the spotlight is on someone else." Which is a perfect description of Ina Claire.

COMMISSIONERS TO ASSIGN VET TRAILER HOMES

County Faces Hard Problem In Selecting Ex-GI's.

Assignment of GI trailer homes to Richland county veterans will begin Saturday county commissioners announced today.

Special lease forms and damage release blanks prepared by County Prosecutor Theodore Lutz were delivered to the commissioners today and await only formal approval of their contents by the commissioners.

The problem of assigning traailers to veterans will be a difficult one since the county purchased only 20 of the mobile homes and nearly 70 veterans have applied for their use.

* * *

First Come Basis.

But the commissioners have decided to allot them on a "first come, first served" basis. Conceivably that could mean the first 20 ex-servicemen who placed their names on the applicants' list would get the homes, but commissioners point out that there undoubtedly will be cancellations because of the requirement that each veteran supply his own location site and utility services.

Rental charges have been set at $12 per month and the lease agreements call for a "month-to-month term" which can be cancelled by the commissioners at any time.

Lease papers which the veterans will be asked to sign provide that the renters must use the trailers only as dwellings (forbidding any commercial use), must not permit them to become unsanitary or fall into a state of disrepair, must be surrendered to the county when their use as dwellings is terminated, and must permit the commissioners the right to examine the trailers and sites.

* * *

Vets Sign Release.

In turn, the veterans must sign a release agreement saving the county from "any and all damage or expense . . . growing out of the location of the said trailers upon the land of the signer."

Financed by a grant of $64,149 from the state legislature, the county's veterans housing program will have approximately $11,000 of the original grant left after placment of the trailers. Commissioners hope that the bulk of the balance can be used for purchase of four or five more trailers.

STANDBY EQUIPMENT KEEPS JOBS INTACT—This 30,000-gallon propane storage tank is keeping thousands of Mansfielders at work this week while other thousands of Ohioans are forced into idleness by the cold weather. It supplies gas to the Mansfield Westinghouse plant during the period when low pressure, caused by the cold, has forced industrial curtailment elsewhere. The tanks stacked at the right of the big storage tank are water heater tanks. It takes three railroad tank cars to fill the big liquid propane storage tank. When filled, the tank contains as much liquid fuel as the gasoline that would be required to operate an average small automobile for 600,000 miles at 20 miles per gallon of gas.

Ton of Food to Be Prepared For City's Biggest Dinner

More than a ton of food is on order for Mansfield's biggest dinner party to be held Friday, Feb. 14, when members of the Chamber of Commerce, the Manufacturers' club and their guests assemble at the Coliseum for dinner and a big evening of entertainment.

Enough swiss steaks to provide generous portions for 1,000 guests or a possible overflow crowd of 1,200 have been ordered by the banquet caterers.

Members of the C. of C. and the Manufacturers' club are urged to obtain tickets before Monday. C. L. VanDerau, banquet chairman, said the ticket sale will be opened to the public Monday and Tuesday.

Highlights of the dinner will be an address, "The Art of Living," by Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, author, lecturer, radio commentator and pastor of Marble Collegiate church of New York City; appearance and brief address by Ohio's governor, Thomas J. Herbert, and a program of music, presented by nearly 100 persons and featuring the 70-voice Glee club of the Owens-Corning Fiberglass corporation of Newark.

The task of providing and serving the huge amount of food falls to six veterans in the city's restaurant and cafeteria business. They are Charles Hayes, Carl Schmidt, Kenneth Strock, Edward D. Sutter, William Miller and Willis Park.

In order to serve the town's biggest banquet, the committee has assembled 3,600 pieces of silver, and 7,200 plates, cups, dessert plates, salads and bread and butter plates.

More than 50 Westinghouse electric roasters and other kitchen equipment will be set up at the Coliseum for preparing the dinner. The menu will consist of swiss steak, escalloped potatoes, Harvard beets, tossed salad, relish and dessert.

Special electrical circuits to operate the kitchen appliances will be installed by the Ohio Public Service company. Westinghouse will install an additional transformer to carry the extra load of current.

VanDerau said that a staff of more than 100 persons will serve the meal, and it's planned to have all the guests served 20 minutes after they are seated.

FIRE DAMAGES HOME NEAR CITY

The eight members of the Robert Kisling family, Wooster road, were trying to keep warm today beside a wood-burning stove after fire yesterday caused heavy damage to their home and put the steam heating system out of operation.

Flames damaged the entire rear wall of the house before Mansfield firemen brought the blaze under control. Neighbors formed a bucket brigade to help control the fire until firemen arrived. The house is four miles east of the city.

As firemen fought the flames, neighbors and members of the family carried out furniture.

Firemen said the bucket brigade probably saved the house.

The blaze was caused by a defective chimney firemen said.

The flames raced from the basement to the roof inside the rear wall. They broke out in a second partition which had to be torn open in order to get at the flames.

SET UP MEETING ON GUARD UNIT

Service-Safety Director E. L. Morgan said today that National Air Guard officials have been invited to meet with city officials soon to discuss the proposed basing of a 35-plane air squadron at Mansfield airport.

Dates ranging from Feb. 12 through 18 have been suggested for the meeting in a letter to Ohio Adj. Gen. C. W. Golle, Morgan said.

The meeting will be held to determine the amount of space the guard will need at the port and what fee it is to be charged to pay its share of airport maintenance costs, the director said.

He said the meeting would be held at night at the city building with interested city officials invited to attend.

The 350-man squadron, including 50 officers, which the guard wants to establish here, would be part of a nation-wide air defense program. Dayton and Cleveland would have the state's other two squadrons.

26 BID TO SUPPLY MATERIALS TO CITY

Up and Down The Street

ADVENTURE AHEAD—

Outdoor adventure will again come to Mansfield area Boy Scouts this spring as they hit the water trails with canoes and packs. Thanks to the contributions of Mansfielders Dick Taylor, Frank Bissman and Verne Jones, five aluminum canoes and a trailer have been obtained and will be ready for Scouts to "break the trail" on the Mohican, Walhonding and Muskingum rivers early next spring. Two canoe trips of three days each along these rivers from Greer to Zanesville, are planned for the spring and summer. Shelby Explorers will blaze the trail, laying out camping sites and obtaining farmers' permission for the locations as soon as spring is here, Ray Turner of the Appleseed area Scouting office, said.

ROUGH ON BIRDS—

Birds, wintering in Mansfield, are having to search long and hard for food since snow has covered the ground. Although feeding stations are kept up in the city's parks by Girl and Boy Scouts, many Mansfield bird lovers have been augmenting the food supply by tossing out bits of bread and grain to the feathered ones. One Mansfield bird lover, who regularly sweeps the walks free of snow each morning and tosses out bread crumbs, urges that more persons acquire the habit of looking after the little fellows until spring thaws enable them to find their own food.

WESTINGHOUSE FIGHTS BACK AS COLD HITS

Concern Expressed Lest Lack of Supplies Force Layoff of Factory Workers.

A $50,000 propane gas plant is keeping 3,500 Mansfielders at work today despite the cold.

The standby plant was rushed to completion at the Westinghouse Appliance Division plant after an earlier cold wave forced temporary furloughing of 1,700 employes.

During the present cold wave, the Mansfield Westinghouse plant probably would be following the lead of scores of other Ohio industrial plants in curtailing production because of lack of natural gas. Low pressure, caused by the cold, has caused a critical shortage of the fuel throughout Ohio.

J. H. Ashbaugh, Westinghouse vice president, said the Mansfield plant uses approximately 50,000 cubic feet of gas an hour for its enameling furnaces, paint line ovens and other production line heating purposes. The stand-by equipment meets this demand.

* * *

Enough For 4,500 Town.

"This equipment is large enough to supply the homes and industries of a community of 4,500 people with its gas requirements in weather such as we have experienced and in this section of the country," Ashbaugh said.

The stand-by equipment includes two large tanks, one used for storing the liquid propane and the other for storing the mixed gas, as well as mixing apparatus, pumps and controls. It cost $50,000.

"The equipment, because of material shortages was not ready for operation at the time of the last cold wave," Ashbaugh related. "Our men were able to get the equipment and it was a battle against time to get it operating as the present cold wave closed in on their area.

* * *

Concern Expressed.

"While the stand-by equipment was being completed, other Westinghouse men practically rode two tank cars of propane gas into Mansfield to assure us of this week's supply."

Despite the standby equipment, Westinghouse officials expressed concern lest continued cold force the furloughing of production workers next week.

Ashbaugh expressed concern whether the standby equipment would permit uninterrupted production should the present cold wave continue.

The executive explained that propane gas producers could not assure plant officials of delivery of additional propane gas for next week. Furthermore, he said, many plants supplying materials to Westinghouse have shut down or curtailed production, shutting off supplies needed for uninterrupted operation.

"If we get no additional propane gas and if we get no authorization to use natural gas, we may have to furlough production workers next week," Ashbaugh said. "However, every effort is being expended and there appears to be a good possibility of additional propane delivery.

"If our suppliers fail to deliver needed raw materials and component parts, we may be forced to curtail production next week. For example, the Strong Company, of Sebring, Ohio, which makes insets and well pans for the roaster has reduced production and we are on a day-by-day basis on electric roaster production.

"Another supplier hit by the cold wave is the Soreng Manufacturing Co., of Fremont, Ohio, our supplier for electrical solenoids closed down Wednesday. We have a little better than a two-day supply of this component part. These are just two of many examples of material shortages, caused by the cold wave."

County Schools Seek Data On Diphtheria Prevention

A second Richland county school has asked for information concerning the immunization of school children against diphtheria, Dr. Fred O. Tonney, city-county health commissioner, said today.

Dr. Tonney said he has sent a five-point letter of recommendation to L. C. Stingel principal of Springfield township schools.

Stingel's request and that of officials at Union Rural high school followed the death from diphtheria of a 15-year-old Union Rural pupil Monday.

Dr. Tonney's letter to Stingel also included recommendations for vaccinating children against small pox.

In the county, where immunization of school children is not compulsory in most schools, the diphtheria case rate is eight times that of Mansfield's, where immunization is compulsory, the commissioner pointed out.
